

Today's Tax Boost Averages $38 More From Each Person

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — This is the day you start contributing your share of the new $5,691,000,000 in annual revenue to Uncle Sam. That averages out to $38 for each person but not everybody of course, will owe that amount. You'll notice the tax increase in your next salary check and probably in a lot of things you buy—a pack of cigarettes, an automobile, a tankful of gasoline, a bottle of liquor, a roll of film, or a fountain pen, for instance.

Few Bright Spots
You may even feel it when you put down two bucks on a nag running at Pimlico or Jamaica with your favorite bookie—if he still is doing business at the same old stand.

Not quite all the tax law changes are on the sour side, though.

The 3 1-3 per cent excise comes off your electricity bills. You now can buy baby lotion, a house trailer, a heating pad and a ticket to a high school football game or a symphony concert—all without paying any federal tax. Prices on those tickets may not come down, though—the high schools and orchestras may keep the difference.

All of these changes were in the big bill passed Oct. 19 by congress to provide more money for the nation's huge mobilization effort. President Truman promptly signed the measure, although he had asked for new revenue of almost twice as much—$10,000,000,000.

Dixie Democrats Hope To Retire Truman In 1952

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. — (AP) — Senator Byrd (D-Va.), in a bitter attack on the Truman administration, said today only "an immediate uprising of political virility in the south" will save the Democratic party.

"I am calling on you to save the Democratic party from elements now in control who have debauched its principles and made it a party of political expediency, one of its chief articles of trade being the peddling of political influence," Byrd said.

Free For Action
He urged that the anti-Truman forces in the southern states "keep themselves free to take whatever effective action may be necessary" to assure President Truman's defeat if he seeks re-election.

Byrd spoke out in a speech at the annual meeting of the Dallas County Farm bureau. The barbecue gathering had been billed as in part a caucus of anti-Truman southern Democrats, but Byrd was the only nationally prominent figure on hand.

While the Farm Bureau meeting bore a strict "no politics" label and had no connection with the party get-together called for later in the day, it was Byrd's appearance nevertheless that led to the idea of an anti-Truman conference.

Sponsors said several thousand southerners from Alabama and neighboring states indicated they would come here for the Virginia senator's address, and their presence would make a 1952 election strategy meeting possible.

Arrangements were made to feed 5,000 at the barbecue.

Byrd himself planned to skip the "Stop Truman" rally, scheduled to start at 3 p. m. (CSE). He said illness in his family required him to board a plane for Washington in the early afternoon.

Before he made that known, some sponsors of the Dixie party conference had talked of a possible move to draft the Virginian as a southern presidential candidate.

Another man was reported dead, another believed killed and about ten others wounded in the wild melee.

Ghioldi was taken to a hospital for immediate, but unsuccessful attempts to remove a bullet from his lung. His condition was termed serious.

Reports of the battle-like demonstration said it was touched off by bomb explosions. Then shots rang out from all corners of Plaza Saez, a mid-town Parana Square where Ghioldi was addressing a crowd.

Ghioldi is opposing President Juan D. Peron for the presidency in the Nov. 11 elections, in which Argentina will choose a chief of state for a six year term.

Buffalo Harbor Disaster Story Told By Skipper

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (AP) — The skipper of the tug involved in the collision of a lake freighter and barge that resulted in Buffalo's worst harbor disaster says he ordered full speed ahead just before the crash.

Capt. Thomas S. Sorenson of Brooklyn testified yesterday before a U. S. Coast Guard board of inquiry seeking to learn the cause of the collision and resulting explosion and fire that apparently cost 10 seamen their lives.

Freighter Swings
Sorenson's tug, the dauntless, was pushing the barge Morania-130 when the gasoline-laden barge was rammed by the freighter Penobscot.

"I thought I could get by on the starboard side without trouble," Sorenson said. He added that, in his opinion, the tug and barge "would have gotten by the steamer's bow" if the freighter had not swung to starboard seconds before the collision.

Sorenson, 48, told the board he sighted the Penobscot when she was about 750 feet from his tug and tow.

He said he sounded the tug's whistle twice about the same time a danger signal went up from the freighter's whistle.

"I ordered full speed ahead," he said. "I swung the tug and tow away to the left to open up space between us and the steamer. Then I swung hard to the right to lift the stern away from the Penobscot. At this time, I was dead ahead of the vessel which swung to the right towards me."

Six Still Missing
Three bodies have been recovered. One was that of the Penobscot.

Casualty List Of UN In Korea Passes 100,000

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP) — Casualties among United Nations forces fighting in Korea have passed 100,000. Most of the dead, wounded and missing are Americans.

The defense department in Washington said yesterday U. S. losses have been 95,592 — about 95 per cent of the U. N. total — since the war started June 25, 1950. The latest American tabulation lists 14,393 killed in action, 12,558 missing, and 68,641 wounded.

Total announced casualties among other U. N. forces were 5,575.

Casualties among the North Koreans and Chinese were much higher. The Pentagon estimated Communist losses through Oct. 13 at 1,402,504.

Losses among the Republic of Korea forces swelled the anti-Communist figures considerably. Through June the South Koreans, who are not members of the United Nations, had lost 212,544 men. That made announced losses totaling 313,711 among units fighting under U. N. command. Like the South Korean computations, many of the figures are old.

Those reporting more than 100 men dead, wounded or missing, were Britain, 2,265; Turkey, 1,920; Canada, 380; Greece, 312; the Netherlands, 162; the Philippines, 161; Australia, 137; Thailand, 135.

Nations with fewer casualties included Belgium, Luxembourg, Colombia, France, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, and Ethiopia.

Receiver Is Named For Pickford Bank; Books Off $200,000

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — (AP) — Harold McGauley, a retired Sault banker, today was named receiver of the private Bank of Pickford, closed by the suicide of its cashier and chief stockholder.

The appointment was made by Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnels at a brief session with the closed bank's board of directors.

McGauley, who resigned a year ago from his job as cashier of the Central Savings Bank of Sault Ste. Marie, was recommended for the Pickford post by Prentiss M. Brown, former U. S. senator.

Brown was a close friend of 61-year-old Ford Beacom, whose suicide started a probe of the bank's finances.

The directors named Paul L. Adams, a Sault attorney, as attorney for the receiver.

State Banking Commissioner Maurice Eveland, who ordered the bank's vaults and cages sealed yesterday, said he would name a receiver immediately if the court approved such action.

A spokesman for the directors said the bank's books may be as much as $200,000 out of balance. Other estimates ranged up to $400,000.

Eveland said that even if a receiver is appointed immediately it might take months to untangle the bank's affairs. It was privately owned and its depositors, numbering approximately 1,000, are not protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Assets $1,600,000
Eveland said the bank claimed $1,600,000 in assets, but this had not been verified.

Until a recent special session of the legislature, the state had no control over the operations of private banks. Under the new law, Eveland had planned to send in his examiners Friday.

Cashier Beacom, a son of the founder of the bank and one of the most respected citizens of the village of Pickford, was found dead in his parked car. A rifle and a suicide note were found beside him.

H. M. Hamilton, a director of the bank, in a statement yesterday said:

"The directors of the bank are hopeful that no depositor will lose one single penny. This hope is based on our knowledge of the bank's condition and on our faith in the full cooperation of Mr. Beacom's family."

LANSING — (AP) — Southern Michigan prison hit a record population peak yesterday at 6,325 men, Warden Julian N. Frist reported.

He said the peak had taxed the institution to capacity and asked Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks to find space at other institutions for at least 20 men.

Department staff men were looking for the necessary space at Marquette branch prison and the Ionia reformatory, both of which are already crowded.

Helicopter Marines Raid
Red Guerrilla Stronghold

U. S. 8TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — Marines successfully raided a Red Korean guerrilla stronghold behind United Nations lines in the first true helicopter combat attack ever made, the Marines announced today.

The attack was made Saturday. The news was withheld until today for security reasons.

The announcement came as light snow and cold rain chilled combat troops along the battle fronts. The quiet was shattered during the night by a thundering 100 B-29 bomb raid.

Thirty-three volunteers made the flying Marine raid. Two helicopters carried them seven miles over jagged North Korean mountains to the guerrillas' mountain fortress.

The airborne raiders landed on a mountain top. They hid in the wild peaks and struck the next day.

Under cover of a frosty ground haze they charged three huts, headquarters of a band of 150 North Korean Reds operating from a mountain hideout.

In the subsequent fight, a spokesman said, the Marines "believe they broke up this stronghold."

Smears Won't Win For GOP, Truman Says

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's assertion the Democrats can win in 1952 on the "real issues" despite a "Republican smear campaign" brought dissent today from Senator Byrd (D-Va.).

Mr. Truman called for an all-out effort to counteract what he labeled as the "big lie" technique in congratulating Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker, on his election as the new Democratic national chairman.

Boyle Denies Charges
McKinney was chosen to succeed William M. Boyle, Jr., who resigned under fire of charges he attempted to influence the making of government loans. Boyle denied the charges and said he quit for health reasons.

The President said in a letter to McKinney last night—following the latter's approval by the Democratic national committee on a unanimous voice vote for the position for which the president had chosen him—that the Republicans are directing all of their energies toward "a campaign of slander and vilification."

No Gifts and Fees
For his part, McKinney made it clear in a speech that things will be different around national committee headquarters.

The new chairman, a novice in national politics, said he would fire anybody on the committee staff with "unclean hands," who took gifts or fees for exerting influence on government agencies.

Mr. Truman, who has said it is all right for committee officials to introduce visitors to government departments but has barred their receiving any fees for such actions, was understood to be backing McKinney in the latter's declaration he would make "drastic changes" in committee policy.

Ann Arbor Jury Lists Used Up

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — A hundred more prospective jurors were summoned to circuit court today for possible duty in the trial of three 18-year-old boys accused of brutally murdering an Ann Arbor nurse.

Circuit Judge James R. Breakey, Jr., ordered the 100 additional persons brought in after failing to obtain a jury from among 62 veniremen questioned yesterday.

The three defendants showed no emotion as they watched yesterday's proceedings. They are William Morey III and Jacob Max Pell of Ypsilanti and David Royal of Milan.

Attorneys for the youths have given no indication of their defense strategy, but two courses have been eliminated by their failure to file notice of intention to use them. They are: Defense by alibi and by temporary insanity.

Prosecutor Douglas K. Reading has indicated he will ask for first degree murder convictions, carrying automatic life sentences.

The boys are accused of the murder of Pauline Campbell, 34, last Sept. 16 as she returned to her rooming house from work at St. Joseph's Mercy hospital.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Today is the anniversary of the attempt by two Puerto Rican Nationalists to assassinate President Truman.

A year ago, on a warm afternoon, two men later identified as Griselio Torresola and Oscar Collazo alighted from a taxi, walked up to the Blair House steps and tried to shoot their way in.

In the bloody battle with White House guards and Secret Service men, both were shot down. Torresola was killed, Collazo gravely wounded. But he recovered and is now under the death sentence.

One White House guard, Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, was also killed and two of his colleagues were seriously wounded. Members of the White House police force arranged to lay wreaths from the Trumans, on Coffelt's grave in Arlington National cemetery today.

Blast Injures 29 In Parade; Woman Killed

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — A 32-year-old woman was fatally burned and 28 other persons injured by a series of gas explosions which transformed a gala neighborhood Halloween celebration into a scene of terror.

Mrs. Helen Kellington died today 12 hours after the blasts which showered flaming debris over hundreds of paraders and spectators.

The earthshaking blasts let go in the basement of a confectionery store and dwelling house in the Beltzhoover area of Pittsburgh, a south hills district where a Halloween parade reached the end of its march.

Seven persons were treated at nearby doctors' offices and two received first aid at the scene.

Fire Chief James T. Coslett said a broken gas main in the confectionery store set off the explosions. They were felt four blocks away.

Coslett estimated damage at $20,000. A roaring fire broke out after the first blast and gutted the two-story building.

A wall caved in and pinned Mrs. Jim McCafferty, an expectant mother, in her auto for nearly an hour.

Between 200 and 300 children wearing masks and gay costumes already had fallen out of the parade and were at a recreation lot across the street when the blasts started.

Argument Now Is Over Who Gets Kaesong

Shooting Won't End For Some Time Yet

By NATE POLOWETZKY

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — A United Nations briefing officer said tonight the Allies and Reds are in "general agreement" on the eastern half of a neutral zone for a Korean armistice.

The western half of the line is in dispute. The key issue is who will get Red-held Kaesong, where truce talks started July 10.

Negotiators are "nearer to agreement on a buffer zone than ever before," said Lt. Col. L. G. Hill, the briefing officer.

But he emphasized agreement on the zone would not end the shooting. Hill said:

"There is a possibility the war will go on for a long time afterward."

Enemy Makes Concessions
The buffer zone is only the first of a proposed armistice. If the battle line changes substantially after an agreement is reached on a buffer zone, Hill said, it probably would have to be negotiated all over again.

Red China's Peiping radio said the Reds' new proposal contains "the greatest possible concession" the Communists can make on a buffer zone.

Hill said that at the close of three hours of talks in Panmunjom today U. N. and Red subcommittees were in "general agreement" on where a demilitarized zone should run from Kumhwa to the east coast of Korea.

Kumhwa is the right anchor of the old Red iron triangle. It is 55 air miles from the east coast in the approximate center of the battleline.

Both sides are basing their proposals for a buffer zone generally on the battle line.

No Other Choice
Biggest argument is over Kaesong itself. Each side wants this

Muehl To Lecture Here On India Friday Night

John F. Muehl, member of the University of Michigan faculty, will speak on "The Problem of India" at the Escanaba junior high school at 7:30 Friday evening. It will be the fourth in a series of lectures on "The United States in World Affairs."

Muehl has spent much time in India, both as a member of the British Army and a private traveler, and has published two books dealing with modern-day India.

His first book, "American Sahib," was published in 1946 and was a journal of his service with the British army in India.

In 1949, after free-lancing two years in India, Muehl wrote, "Interview With India," a report on a 2,300-mile journey through the village areas of Indian on horse and camelback, and in bullock cart and native boat.

The book has sold more than 25,000 copies and has been distributed by the Book Fund Club as its October-November selection.

Muehl also has had his articles on India and the Far East published in Reader's Digest, International Digest, Asia Magazine and the Far Eastern Survey. Both the National and Columbia Broadcasting companies have used his material on nation-wide programs.

Subsequent lectures will deal with "The Problem of the Middle East" and "The Problem of Western Europe."

Princess Puts Wreath On Washington's Tomb; Philip Wows Soxers

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Princess Elizabeth today placed a wreath on the tomb of George Washington, the man who played a major role in taking this country out of the British empire.

It was a simple ceremony. Elizabeth and Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, took the wreath and placed it against the tomb.

When they came out, Philip turned, faced the tomb, and saluted.

Like any other visiting tourists, the couple then inspected Mount Vernon.

Britain's "fair princess," as President Truman called her, and her handsome husband were accompanied by the president's daughter Margaret.

The princess and Miss Truman wore heavy coats. The duke wore a naval uniform.

Big Event At 3:30

From Mt. Vernon, the procession went to Arlington National cemetery.

There, the Princess laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and an Army bugler sounded taps. Philip stood at her side, his hand raised in a stiff salute.

As the motorcade wound up the wooded slopes of the cemetery, an Army battery rendered a 21-gun salute.

The royal party went to the Canadian embassy for a reception to the Washington diplomatic corps.

The day's big event, with 2,000 on the invitation list and thousands more on the disappointed list, was a reception (3:30 p. m., EST) in the big, campus-like British embassy, Champagne and French pastries were to be served in a circus tent on the lawn. Among those invited: All members of Congress.

Back at the Canadian embassy, Elizabeth and Philip will give a formal dinner for President and Mrs. Truman, to "pay back" the dinner the Trumans gave for their royal guests last night at Blair House.

It was evident from the first that the blond duke, though he kept carefully in the background, was the crowd-pleaser of the pair — among the women who lined the curbs and applauded, at any rate.

Squeals For Duke

Bobby-soxers in front of the Statler Hotel, where the princess and her husband attended a reception, clapped politely for Elizabeth but burst into excited squeals when Philip, tall and blue-clad in a lieutenant commander's uniform of the royal navy, appeared.

"Oooh, he's nice!" piped one teen-age voice from the crowd. Philip grinned, waved and hurried on inside.

The reception was given by some 900 news correspondents. It included the presentation of an Indian war bonnet for the royal couple's three-year-old son, Prince Charles, and an Indian doll for their year-old daughter, Princess Anne.

Elizabeth smiled, said she liked America fine and promised to come again when she could stay longer.

Next came the Blair House dinner—strictly a white tie and gold forks affair.

Besides the hosts and the guests of honor there were only 13 guests — the British and Canadian ambassadors and their wives, Chief Justice Vinson and Mrs. Vinson, Acting Secretary of State and Mrs. James E. Webb, bachelor Senator Green (D-R. I.), Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) and Mrs. McMahon, and Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.) and Mrs. Smith.

Concrete Wall Is Being Razed

Structure Will Be Rebuilt

The Pearson Construction company, general contractors on the city water filtration plant project, has informed city officials that it will dismantle the entire concrete wall on a water gallery, portions of which were found to be defective, it was reported today.

Previously it had been indicated that a part of the concrete wall may be salvaged. The contracting company, however, reported that it wants complete satisfaction for itself and for the city on the water plant project and that the company felt the best solution was to dismantle the entire wall and rebuild it.

All of the steel reinforcing is being salvaged, however, and will be utilized when the wall is repoured with new concrete.

The wall was 55 feet in length, 16 feet high and 14 inches wide. It contained approximately 60 yards of reinforced concrete.

Status reports will be heard at a meeting of Delta County Community Chest workers tonight to determine exactly how far the drive has progressed to date and what work remains to be done to reach the goal of $20,000.

The meeting will be held at 8 tonight in the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office, which is just below the Chest headquarters at 710½ Ludington street.

Members of the Chest council, community and township chairmen, council executive committee members, campaign unit chairmen and other workers are asked to attend. Official representatives of the six agencies participating in the Chest—Michigan Children's Aid, Cod Liver Oil Fund, Salvation Army, Camp Fire Girls, Boy and Girl Scouts—also are requested to attend.

$13,000 To Date

Approximately $13,000 has been collected to date in the county campaign, Nicholas Chapekis, county chairman, announced this morning.

"All campaign committee chairmen are urged to turn in all collections to date at the meeting Thursday night," Chapekis said. "This is the only way we can check up and see exactly how we stand at this stage of the drive."

"With the cleanup work underway, it is important that the Chest headquarters receive full reports and collections from all committees in Escanaba, Gladstone and the townships."

Turn In Envelopes

In order to expedite collections, Chapekis further requested that solicitations completed in the business and industrial districts be delivered to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office.

"Envelopes are being picked up as rapidly as possible, but it would help a great deal if some were turned in directly," he said. "An accurate record of all contributions is being kept."

Deer Season Opens Nov. 15

Resident License
Fee Is $3.50

The general deer hunting season will open in the Upper Peninsula woods, on Nov. 15 and will end on Nov. 30.

The special archery season, which opened on Oct. 1, will come to a close on Nov. 5. Hunting for bear will coincide with the general deer season, Nov. 15 to 30.

Deer hunting licenses are required of all persons over 14 when hunting deer. Minors under 14 may not hunt deer. Persons between 14 and 17 may procure licenses only on application of parent or guardian. When hunting, such minor must be accompanied by someone over 17, designated by the parent or guardian.

The resident deer and bear license fee is $3.50 and the non-resident, $5.

Each hunter may kill one male deer with antlers at least three inches. One male deer with antlers extending not less than three inches from the skull may be taken for camp use under permit by parties of four or more licensed deer hunters during the season. The camp deer permit is $3.50.

It is unlawful to hunt deer or bear while they are in water.

The 1950 hunting season was one of the most successful in years. For bow hunting it topped all others both in number of archers and in numbers of deer killed. Gun hunters about equalled those afield in 1949 but killed many more deer.

The per cent of gun hunters successful in 1950 was 28.2, which has been exceeded only twice in the last 15 years, in 1945 and 1946. The total kill of deer by all types of hunting, nearly 125,000, was the largest in the history of the state.

Ruark Hopes Joe Louis Will Quit Ring Game

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—It hurt to see the old boy belted through the ropes that way, to lie there crumpled and temporarily paralyzed by a punch that would never have reached the tawny panther we used to know as Joe Louis. But I think the old gentleman knows for sure now that he's through, that the time has come to quit. His fights since his "comeback" started have been farcical, and the man has embroidered too much dignity into his life to wind up as a pathetic has-been, a figure of pitying scorn.

Somehow you have a way of attaching yourself to certain sports figures. I have always tied myself to Louis and Joe DiMaggio, since we all hit the sports business about the same time. I guess I saw all of Joe's more important fights except the first with Schmeling, and I felt that one. I felt it in the pocketbook.

Germans Were Excited

Seems I was in Germany at the time. Max was then high in the Hitlerian favor. He was going to protect the Aryans from the menace of darker races. He was a self-nominated Siegfried, and Louis was cast as a dark and sinister dragon. German excitement reached fantastic heights, which they were eager to protect with money.

Yours truly was willing to cooperate. I believe I was engaged in the smuggling business in Hamburg at the time, and was fairly fat. The Nazis were screaming for action, and offering odds as high as ten to one. Buster here reached into his poke and bet it all, which was considerable, for American cigarettes even then were extremely profitable if you didn't insist on declaring them to the customs.

You remember the story. Schmeling banged him a beauty just after the bell, and a hundred solid smashes later young Joe folded. I folded right along with him. The budding king of the smugglers collapsed his empire and shipped home on a rusty old freighter, as ordinary seaman at $10 a week. Every time I fell to with a suji-bucket or a chipping hammer I called Joseph a short and ugly name.

That Second Fight

We got well on Joe, and even with the Nazis, though, when Herr Maxie came over to cinch the second leg on his ideological trophy. The visiting firemen were just as arrogant here as they were in Germany, as they flashed their little Leicas during the training stint. I had turned legitimate, which is to say I was working for a living, and there wasn't as much loose money around, but what I had I bet and when Mr. Louis belted Mr. Schmeling into political disrepute I was practically repaired.

Joe and I continued in our intimacy. I caught him one night in Washington, when Buddy Baer started a swing in Baltimore and finished it in Griffith stadium. It hit Joe in the chin and the next thing I knew I was baby-sitting 208 pounds' worth of Louis. He winged through the ropes and landed in my lap. A startling experience for a non-combatant. Joe was ever a sucker for a looping right, even when it belonged to such a clumsy fellow as the junior Baer.

Took Little Punishment

This is mostly reminiscence, and has no real point to the piece. It's just that I have been fond for more'n 15 years of a fine gentleman who did great things to make the boxing business respectable, even though his major managers were in highly suspect businesses. One of them went to jail, I recall, but the tarnish never rubbed off on Joe.

Louis took very little punishment in nearly two decades of fighting. He was never bruised around, never marked up very much, and I think he has all his marbles now. It is not the clean knockout that loosens a fellow's brain from its moorings so much as the repeated jarring that leads to the kayo. Joe caught one big one from Baer and a stiff left from Galento and a lot from Schmeling and a fair one from Braddock, but considering his time in grade he dished a lot and accepted few. His knockout the other night tells me he is a cinch for punishment now, and I don't want to see him take it. I would like to see Louis barred from further fighting by law. He can't go up. He can only go down.

Garrett Retires As Light Keeper

Lloyd Hulett Takes Over At Escanaba

Dan Garrett, officer in charge of the U. S. Coast Guard light station at Escanaba for the past 17 years, today retired from the service in which he has been employed for the 35 years.

Garrett's service began in the former U. S. Lighthouse Service, incorporated with the U. S. Coast Guard a number of years ago. Included in his record of service were several years on the Eleven Foot Shoal lightship.

The lightship was removed when the Minneapolis Shoal light-house was constructed and went into operation 12 miles south of Escanaba in Green bay about 1932. As officer in charge of the light station at Escanaba, Garrett served in a position his father had previously filled for a number of years.

Hulett In Charge

Succeeding Garrett today as officer in charge at Escanaba light station is En. Lloyd H. Hulett, a member of the Coast Guard for 22 years.

His service began at South Manitou Island, and has included assignments ranging from quiet shore stations such as Escanaba

(the first time in 1942) to war-time service aboard the Coast Guard cutter Eastwind in Greenland waters of the North Atlantic.

Hulett was stationed on the East Coast, at stations on the Great Lakes including Duluth, and came to Escanaba June 24, 1951, from Sturgeon Bay.

The Hulett's reside at Soo Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett left today for Manistique where they will reside temporarily. Garrett said he has no definite retirement plans.

The Escanaba lighthouse was established at Sand Point in 1867 on land purchased by the government from Delta county. The light was damaged by fire in 1886, and the old tower was removed about 20 years ago when a new light was located on a crib north of the point.

Other members of the present crew at the light station are En. 1 Robert R. Noble and BM3 Roderick Bassett.

In Peninsula

A 15-year-old Hancock girl has been stricken with poliomyelitis and is a patient in St. Luke's hospital, Marquette.

The new case increases the number of Upper Peninsula persons stricken with polio this year to 37, six more than the comparable figure for 1950.

There were 64 persons in the state last week who were hit by the disease, almost half the number overcome by polio in the same week of 1950.

Year's Total Under '50 Toll

Up to this week, 1,292 persons in Michigan have been stricken with polio this year. Up to this date last year, there were 1,472 Michigan residents who had been hit by the disease.

The number of persons stricken with polio in the Upper Peninsula this year, by counties, follows:

Chippewa 10; Houghton, seven; Menominee, six; Marquette, and Delta, four each; Mackinac, two, and Luce, Ontonagon, Dickinson and Schoolcraft, one each.

The Houghton County total includes three non-residents who were stricken when vacationing there. The Marquette county fig-

Editorials—

Communism And Treason Go Hand In Hand All Over The Globe

A Swedish navy officer, a Communist of 25 years, testified in court Tuesday in Stockholm that he worked as a spy to aid Russia in preparing plans for a possible invasion of Sweden.

The officer, Ernest Andersson, admitted that he gave Russia details of Sweden's naval armaments and detailed information, including photographs, of possible invasion areas along the north Sweden coast.

This case is one more in a long series depicting the workings of the Communist mind. It provides further evidence that being a Communist implies loyalty to Russia, even at the cost of being a traitor to the homeland.

Speak Softly — But Carry A Big Stick

AMONG certain Americans who understand the Russians quite well, concern is growing that the Kremlin may be getting the mistaken idea that the door is closed to all negotiation with us on a general peace settlement.

They fear, in other words, that Stalin may now believe we ourselves have determined upon war as the only possible solution of East-West differences. If that should really be his conclusion, the danger would be great that he would strike at us at the moment he deemed most advantageous for his own military aims.

As true observers of the Soviet Union worry on this score because President Truman lately has been telling the world we don't think agreements with Russia are worth the paper they are written on. Earlier he said that force was the only language the Soviet Communists understood.

Recent counter-assertions by the president and others that we always welcome any sincere efforts to talk peace do not carry the same weight as the more dramatic assaults on Russian integrity and purpose.

In the view of the experts on Russia, we must cease emphasizing Soviet deceit and reliance on force if we are to avert the risk of convincing Moscow the door is shut.

No one would argue for an instant that the charges are untrue. By this time we know it is axiomatic that an accord with Russia is only as effective as the strength we have to compel its enforcement.

But this time above all seems a poor one to blacken further the character of the Russians as negotiators. For we and our friends in the West are approaching that condition of strength which by our own definition is a necessary preliminary to really useful negotiation.

We must establish "situations of strength" in those portions of the globe where we are face-to-face with the Kremlin and its puppets. We have a great distance yet to go to realize that position. But we are sufficiently far along to give the Soviet Union genuine pause, to take Western defense out of the realm of fancy and into reality.

These new evidences of power Moscow appears to be reading correctly. In the past 12 months Soviet ambitions have not been directly advanced anywhere. No new aggressions have been undertaken, no integral uprisings engineered, no sweeping propaganda victories scored.

At San Francisco, which many observers mark as a turning point in Soviet diplomatic history, Russian emissaries seemed bewildered and unsure. They behaved as if the Kremlin knew the useful day of phony peace talk was past, but had not quite decided what to substitute. There was some threat of force, but it frightened very few.

These uncertainties of policy are the proof the West has made important strides in the Cold War. It would be tragic and ironic if these gains we have made in the interest of keeping the peace should, in company with harsh words, only convince our adversary we are bent upon war.

Gen. Vaughan Is Greasing The Way

MAJ-GEN. HARRY VAUGHAN'S philosophy is now somewhat clearer. He is not an influence-peddler. There is no magic in those words, "the White House is calling," uttered over the telephone to some government agency with favors to dispense.

What Vaughan does is merely to speed things up for the people who come to him, to slash away the tangle of red tape, to get them a hearing. It is a job he feels himself uniquely fitted for. The fact that he practices it under the White House roof he regards as purely incidental.

The general's ambition begins to emerge and take shape. He wants to go down in history as the Great Expediter.

One wonders whether he has given thought to the prospect that in living up to his grand role he might assist in expediting his boss right out of the White House.

Last Installment

By Gordon Martin

It's a feeling grand and glorious when comes at last the day, that there's only one installment left you've got to go and pay. Be it furniture, an icebox, or perhaps your trusty car, now it's yours and you would like to shout the joyful news afar. On the girl who takes your payment, you bestow a friendly grin, for no longer will you take each month's installment on the chin.

Then you think of how you had to watch your meagre bank account, and no matter how you scrimped and saved, it never seemed to mount. You denied yourself some pleasures, that you wished you could afford, for you had to keep in mind your payment couldn't be ignored. And you figured out some ways and means to earn an extra dime, so that threatening installment you could always meet on time.

But in future weeks you find that it is easy to forget, that you sweated long and hard to keep diminishing your debt. Soon there's something else you see for which you have an awful yen, and the girl who takes your payment says: "I see you're back again." Then once more you start in hoarding and you're longing for the day, when at last there's only one installment left for you to pay.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The more you look into the income-tax situation, the more it appears that some U. S. tax collectors, especially those with political pull, regard their jobs as indirect pensions and spend more time on private business than on Uncle Sam's.

Fortunately, there are thousands of non-political internal revenue agents, but here is an illustration of what has been happening at Nashville, Tenn. Investigation of Nashville's internal revenue office so far has concerned three individuals:

1. Lipe Henslee, the suspended collector, who, following an illness a couple of years ago, fell a victim of narcotics. The narcotics bureau sent two agents to Tennessee to see where Henslee was getting his drugs, reported that nothing illicit was involved though he is still taking narcotics and not spending sufficient time at his office. This was the reason for Henslee's suspension.

2. Also under investigation is George Welch, Jr., assistant collector, who has been criticized for spending too much time on the affairs of the Washington Realty company rather than on collecting taxes. The realty company owns three large apartment houses in Nashville, and the company is controlled by Welch's family.

Investigators who checked the case reported that Welch is almost stone deaf, difficult to talk to, with the result that his superiors by-passed him, gave him little work to do. Therefore, he devoted himself to his family's realty firm.

3. Also under investigation is Chief Field Deputy Ira Parker, Jr., whose family is connected with a liquor distributing firm, the National Distributing company of Clinton, Tenn. The company was organized by Parker's nephew, Kenneth E. Caldwell, and financed by a note for $125,000 at the Commerce Union Bank of Nashville. Underwriting the note are Ted Murray of the Nashville Baseball club and Joe Parker, brother of the chief field deputy.

What investigators are interested in is whether Ira Parker is or was an owner of any part of the liquor firm. They found an arrangement in the underwriting deal whereby Murray and Ira's brother Joe were cut in on the profits until the $125,000 loan was paid off, plus another provision whereby the loan was never to be entirely paid off, which made his brother a virtual partner. In August, Mrs. Roxie Parker, wife of the deputy collector, acquired a 25 per cent stock ownership in the firm.

It has been reported that Deputy Collector Parker accompanied representatives of the firm on their visits, thus bringing indirect pressure to increase the company's business. Caldwell, when questioned, denied this.

"Ira was down here on a visit and just happened to accompany me," he explained.

POLITICS AND TAXES

Washington internal revenue executives say they feel sorry for Messrs. Henslee and Welch because of their physical infirmities. However, it's admitted that the government budget, already one of the biggest in history, should not be overloaded by paying salaries to those who cannot give full time to their jobs.

Note 1—The three above-mentioned collectors got their jobs through Sen. Kenneth McKellar, who, as chairman of the appropriations committee, is one of the most powerful—and irascible—members of Congress. To fire one of his appointees would mean bringing the well-known McKellar wrath down on the entire internal revenue bureau and probably curtailing its budget. Hence McKellar's friends stay on the payroll whether they work or not.

Note 2—What our tax-collecting system needs is to have collectors appointed by civil service, not politics, and then rotate them to different cities after they have lived ten years in a community. After collectors have made too many friends they lose their effectiveness.

FRIENDLY SENATOR

Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina believes that a friend is a friend. He has just demanded a Senate investigation of Puerto Rican Governor Munoz. Marin's administration—all because of friendship. Olin's friend is not Governor Marin, but Leonard Long of Charleston, S. C., from whom the governor is trying to collect one million dollars in taxes. Inside story is that Long has been mass-producing houses in Puerto Rico. He was promised tax exemptions on the housing by former Gov. Jesus Penuero, but the new governor has now filed suit to collect. So Long's friend, Senator Johnston, wants Governor Marin investigated.

BRITISH ADMIRALS

A secret state department report blames the British admiralty for the crisis in Iran. The British admirals controlled the Adadan refinery, but were too blind to grant the Iranians a few small concessions. For example, the admirals charged the Iranians the full price for gasoline used in Iran, plus the cost of freight from the Caribbean. In other words, the Iranians had to pay a phony freight rate, even though the gasoline came from their own wells and was never shipped. The admirals also refused to allow Iranians to examine the books or sit on the board of the Anglo-Iranian Oil company.

Alaskan Odyssey:

Mosquitos And Dust Are Bothersome In Alaska; Bears Cause No Trouble

By STUART INGERSOLL
As Told to Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

The tail lights of a big Diesel truck disappeared down the road to Valdez. I watched the lights grow smaller and smaller and finally disappear, swallowed up in the black Alaskan night. I was very much alone—unless there were bears in the neighborhood.

I was at a road junction called Glenallen. It was where I found myself after my first day's travels, on my hitchhike trip from Alaska to New York. A few minutes before, I had been riding in the truck, listening dreamily while the driver bragged that he made more money than the Governor of Alaska.

"This is as far as we go together, buddy," he said, suddenly. He was going straight to Valdez; I wanted to go north, where I'd meet the Alcan Highway. I thanked him and got out. It was midnight.

I found myself on a little tri-

EDITOR'S NOTE: Stuart Ingersoll, a 19-year-old Yale University student, went to Alaska for the summer. He decided to hitch-hike home to New York. Here is his own account of that trip—the story of the people he met, the things he saw, the adventures he had. This is the second of four rollicking chapters that comprise his Alaskan Odyssey.

angle in the middle of the junction. I figured that if there were any bears prowling around, I'd be safer on the triangle than at the edge of the road. There was no sign of any traffic, so I rolled up in my sleeping bag. It was completely black; my eyes strained, but there was nothing to see on that moonless night. And I fell asleep quickly.

When I awoke, the sun was coming up from the mountains to the east. I sliced off a piece of pumpernickel, slapped on some cheese and that was breakfast.

In the morning, I had two rides which got me to the little town of Paxson. One was a typical Alaskan sordidness. He rolled cigarettes with one hand and reminisced about his boyhood back in Idaho.

At Paxson, I fought monster mosquitos for five hours before I got another ride. Finally, a pickup truck stopped and took me—welded and scratching—to Delta Junction on the Alcan Highway.

The road from Paxson to Delta Junction runs along the Delta River—or, more correctly, the road is the river. In summer the river is dry. The real road is used only in winter.

That night I slept in a schoolhouse, and the next day I traveled the famous Alcan. Like the other Alaskan highways, it's a gravel road. The truck drivers all said they prefer driving it in the winter, when the dry, powdery snow gives it a smoother surface. In summer it's bumpy, hard on tires and very dusty.

Once I passed an Army convey-

"VERY MUCH ALONE" was Stuart Ingersoll as the big Diesel truck dropped him at a deserted cross-roads in Alaska on a black night. His first thought was—bears.

heading northwest. It kicked up a choking cloud of dust. The truck I was in plowed through this cloud, and we had to roll our windows up. It was more than 80 degrees at the time, and the driver and I nearly suffocated for the 30 miles we were passing the convoy.

Just below Tok Junction, I was riding in a Canadian truck that stopped to gas up. I noticed another truck there, a big job with Utah license plates. I went over to the driver.

"Are you heading for home?" I asked him.

"Sure thing, pal. I'll give you a lift as soon as I get that flat-bed trailer tied on to the flat-bed I'm pulling," he said. He pointed to a trailer in a sand bank at the side of the road, and explained that he'd had to leave it on his last trip. He said if I'd give him a hand, he'd take me all the way to Ogden, Utah. I said it was a deal.

We hitched his truck to the abandoned trailer, and tried to get it free. It was a struggle. Once, the truck went into the ditch. But we finally got the second trailer chained up on the one he was pulling and started off.

A few miles down the highway, there was a crash and the truck lurched to the side. The little wheels of the second trailer had plunged through the floor of the first one, and shifted over. We tightened the chains as best we could and drove the rest of the way with a distinctly lopsided load.

Each time we stopped, I'd noticed that the truck driver seemed to be a sort of unofficial messenger service throughout Alaska. At every gas station and roadside stop, there was a bulletin board with messages for the drivers. At one, the lady proprietor asked the driver I was with to pick up an ice cream freezer for her in Great Falls, Mont.

That night, we got to the Canadian border after the customs office had closed. So we slept in the truck.

"You know something, Stuart," the driver said as we talked before we fell asleep, "you're silly to go with me to Ogden. If you've got the money, you ought to go by boat from Swagway to Vancouver. The scenery the rest of this trip isn't much—nothing like what you'll see from the boat. I'll be glad to take you, of course, but you ought to go by boat."

We said good-bye at Haines Junction, 100 miles from the port of Haines. And, for the next 22 hours, I stayed there.

Tomorrow: At sea with a lion

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE RIVALS—Without rivalry, the will to win, and the competitive spirit there would be few football games and fewer spectators.

Without spectators many of the inter-community hostilities that make some towns disagreeable place to live in would never have developed.

The fault is not with football as a sport but with people as football fans.

Some football fans become so intense in loyalty to the home team that they completely lose perspective. If their team is defeated they become bitter and extend their animosity to include the other team, the other school, the other town and everyone in it.

Out of such misguided enthusiasm develops those year-around inter-community rivalries that end every hope of cooperative participation in mutually beneficial projects.

AND GOOD WILL—High schools in every town have a definite responsibility in building good football teams—and teaching students good citizenship and good sportsmanship.

The schools can also take the lead in minimizing the detrimental inter-community rivalry that leads to over-emphasis of football as a part of the school program.

One way to present a good brand of football and still keep the schools and the communities on friendly terms is shown by Escanaba and Gladstone.

This intelligent approach was evident at the recent Gladstone-Escanaba game.

PART OF THE GAME—Officials of the game imposed penalties without being subjected to boos or catcalls.

The cheer leaders from Gladstone led Escanaba's student section in "yea team!" yells, and Escanaba's cheer leaders did the same for Gladstone.

At half-time the combined bands of the two schools, 90 pieces in all, played and marched and formed salutes to the two schools—with Gladstone honored first as the visiting team.

Paul Cowen, Gladstone band director, and Robert S. Meyer, Escanaba, cooperated in making the band performance an outstanding success.

It was the second year of combined presentation and the compliments indicate it will be continued.

Note: We might suggest a public address system so cheer leaders and band can be heard by spectators in all parts of the stadium.

NOT THAT WAY—On the other side of the picture are two towns we will not name, where rivalry is so intense it extends into business and social contacts of the adults.

Betting on the outcome of the game is high, police are always in attendance to quell incipient riots, and football coaches come and go on the basis of wins and losses on that one game of the year.

About the only time the people of the two towns ever get together is for the "big game" and then they charge their hate-batteries with enough juice to carry them through another year of destructive rivalry.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED—We could point to Stambaugh and Iron River as two towns that successfully solved a similar problem through the good offices of its school officials and civic leaders.

Supervised pep rallies the night before the game replaced the raids and fist fights; mingling of students in inter-school activities throughout the year broke down incipient "gang" tendencies; dances after the games brought the students together instead of dividing them into rival camps.

Now about the only evidence of an unruly earlier day are the "old grads" and the drug store quarterbacks who still blow a hard game of football. Which perhaps proves that you can't teach some old dogs a new trick.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

MEALTIME PHRASES

Let us look at a pair of mealtime phrases.

"To eat humble pie," meaning to humble oneself, to apologize or abase oneself profoundly, was originally a play on words, a humorous substitution of humble for umble while retaining the meaning of humble. Umble pie was, and perhaps still is in some parts of England, a pasty made of the edible inward parts of an animal, usually a deer. Some thought them a delicacy, some thought them fit only for menials. And the pie made from those parts was also variously appreciated; James Russell Lowell, in 1864, said, "Disguise it as you will, flavor it as you will, call it what you will, umble-pie is umble-pie, and nothing else."

The derivation of the phrase is interesting; though in present use it is humble pie, jocularly derived from umble pie, umble is one of a number of English words which originally had an initial "n." Just as apron was originally napron and adder (the snake) was nadder, so umble was originally numble. But there would have been no point to the joke then, without an initial vowel to which cockney "h" might be prefixed.

Before leaving the table, just a glance at "neither fish nor flesh." No evidence has been found, either in proof or denial, yet the fact that the earliest record of this phrase coincided almost exactly with the break between Henry VIII of England and the Pope makes me suspect that the original significance of the expression was theological. Those who abstained from neither fish nor flesh when days of fasting were prescribed were neither Roman Catholics nor Dissenters, neither one thing nor the other—just plain irreligious.

Merely to intensify a lack of distinction indicated by the phrase someone added "nor good red herring." This is not a recent addition, for it was recorded as long ago as 1646 by John Heywood.

Earmuffs for sleeping are an aid to health, says a doctor. Or a clothespin for father's nose.

Ruffed Grouse Invade Islands

Take Hold On Beaver And Drummond

Ruffed grouse appear to have taken hold on Drummond, Beaver and Bois Blanc islands.

A good number of "pats" have been observed by state game men, as well as by hunters working the islands for sharptails and other small game on which the season is open. Whether pats will be legal island game next year has not been determined as yet.

"Ruffed grouse were introduced on the islands only two and three years ago," says G. A. Ammann, conservation department grouse specialist. "Stocking was timed to coincide with the high in their cycle on the mainland, with the thought that the birds would have the best chance of establishing themselves at such a time, if ever."

Sharptail grouse were introduced on Beaver and Drummond 10 and 11 years ago and were legal game for the first time on Beaver last year. Season never has been closed on Drummond.

Asbestos Sought Near Marinette

$5,000 Exploration Contract Granted

A $5,000 contract to explore for reserves of asbestos—a strategic and critical mineral with important insulating uses—in Marinette county, Wis., has been entered into between the Government and industry, Paul Zinner, Region V Regional Director of the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, made known today.

Under terms of the Defense Minerals Administration contract, the Government will contribute 90 percent or $4,500 to the cost of the project, and the Star Mining Company of Madison, Wis., the operator, the remaining amount, Mr. Zinner said.

Stripping of the overburden by bulldozer around a small outcrop containing chrysotile—one of most abundant and useful of asbestos minerals—is now in progress on the Herriman farm just seven miles west of Nathan, Wis. Maximum depth of excavation will be 20 feet in an area covering 80 square feet.

The exploration contract will be completed within 90 days from the date of its recent signing. If the deposit proves to be economic and mined within 10 years, the operator must repay the Government loan through the percentage of royalty realized from mining the area defined in the contract.

The United States produces only about 8 percent of its asbestos requirements, according to the Bureau of Mines Minerals Yearbook for 1949. During 1950, domestic mines produced 41,358 tons, and producers sold or used 728,786 tons valued at $46,555,867. Most of the domestic asbestos, chrysotile, comes from Vermont and Arizona. Canada supplies the major imports, with some coming from Southern Rhodesia, Africa.

Often called Earth's flax, high-quality spinning-grade chrysotile is silky, pure white and may be twisted into a thread. Strong, pliable and able to stand high temperatures, asbestos is used in brake linings, furnaces, textiles, asphalt roofing, construction materials, and in a new type of high efficiency air filter.

Defenseman Scores Goal For Toronto

(By The Associated Press) Hugh Bolton, highly regarded defenseman, has captured the hearts of Toronto's rabid hockey fans.

Bolton, bothered by injuries the past two seasons, scored the second goal of his National Hockey league career last night and as far as Maple Leaf customers are concerned he has earned his salary.

The lanky rearguard's goal enabled the Leafs to beat their arch rivals, the Montreal Canadiens, 1-0, in a bruising game that included 12 penalties and a brush between a fan and Montreal's fiery Maurice Richard.

The victory jumped the Leafs into third place and prevented Montreal from tying Detroit for first place. The meeting was the first of the season between the heated rivals.

Detroit Acquitted In Roadhouse Death

WEST UNION, O.—(P)—Cecil Fyfe, 30-year-old Detroit, has been acquitted here of a second degree murder charge.

The jury, composed of six men and six women, reached their verdict after deliberating 45 minutes.

Fyfe had been charged with the death of Floyd Taylor, 28, Blue Creek, after a roadhouse fracas near here on July 3, 1950. Following an autopsy, it was ruled that Taylor's death was due to a brain concussion and shock caused by a blow on his head.

The Detroit man pleaded self-defense. He will be released to federal authorities on a charge of being absent without leave from the army air base at Selfridge Field, Mich.

Jurmu Busy With Greens Business And Other Work

This is the busy season for Ray T. Jurmu, 1601 Lake Shore drive, Escanaba, who is engaged in trucking, the greens business and other enterprises.

Since Oct. 1, Jurmu has had a crew of women making grave blankets for the funeral trade in a garage building at Stephenson. This week, he put another crew to work processing the balsam and spruce boughs at the old school in Spaulding.

About Dec. 1, Jurmu will start buying Christmas trees and hauling them to the Chicago market. In other seasons, he uses his three semi-trailer trucks to haul posts and other forest products.

Last month, Jurmu also joined the production department of the Fehrer Manufacturing company of Stephenson, which has obtained a contract to supply collapsible bleachers to the U. S. Marine Corps.

Jurmu's three trucks are leaving this week to deliver the first batch of bleachers to the Marine Corps in California. Other shipments will be made to Quantico, Va., and other Marine bases.

Barbara Payton Tells Of Gangland Killing Only To Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Barbara Payton told a federal grand jury yesterday what, if anything, she knows about a gangland killing—but she wouldn't tell anyone else.

The actress spent 40 minutes with the grand jury but declined comment when she came out.

Miss Payton was accompanied to the federal building by her husband, Franchot Tone. He is at liberty under $500 bond pending trial on a battery charge preferred by newspaper columnist Florabel Muir. She says he spit in her face and kicked her shins in an argument at a night club Tuesday.

In previous appearances before the grand jury the actress provided an alibi for a man questioned about the 1950 slaying in Fresno of Abe Davidian, informer in a probe of a narcotics ring. She corroborated Stanley Adams' story that he spent part of the fatal day in Barbara's apartment. Adams later was convicted of perjury.

Improper Blasting Blamed For Death Of 12 Men In Coal Mine

Kayford, W. Va.—(P)—The coal mine explosion which killed 12 men yesterday was caused by improper blasting by the crew, the State Mines Department reported today.

The department spokesman said the crew apparently placed several dynamite "shots" under some overhanging slate to loosen it, and the resulting blast ignited the coal dust in the air.

He said the manner in which it was done is forbidden by law and mines department rules.

Seven bodies were removed during the afternoon and the last five just before dark. Most of them showed burns, which meant they had been killed outright by the blast.

Two of the dead were a father-and-son team. Another left a widow and seven children.

Western Arkansas Hunters Gunning For Circus Beasts

By HARLEY PERSHING

MT. IDA, Ark.—(P)—A rare chance to hunt a couple of strange animals for this section of the southland—a spotted cat and a white bear—brought hunters running to this western Arkansas area today.

The animals were described as dangerous by sportsmen and circus people. The leader of the hunt, Sheriff Wilbur Tidwell of Montgomery county, was optimistic over the chances of bringing back the four-footed fugitives—dead or alive.

Two leopards, a polar bear, two black bears and several rhesus monkeys escaped when a circus van overturned and freed the beasts in the rugged, sparsely settled Quachita National forest, 15 miles northwest of here yesterday morning. The black bears are said to be tame.

Several hours later, one of the leopards was shot and killed when it ventured onto a highway not far from the scene of the wreck.

The escaped animals belonged to Campa Bros. circus, a truck show with a large menagerie.

It was the second misfortune in a 12-hour period for the circus, made up mostly of Latin-American employees. On Tuesday night, while showing in Mena, Ark., a young lion clawed to death the nine-year-old granddaughter of a woman animal trainer.

Today's Tax Jump Costs Average Of $38 Per Person

the new law with the exception of corporation tax increases, retroactive to last April 1.

Most persons are going to be rapped for an income tax boost of about 11 3-4 per cent over what they have been paying. Those in the very high brackets get somewhat lighter treatment; they must pay an increase amounting to nine per cent of their taxable income left after paying the old tax.

This section of the bill will add about $2,280,000,000, a year to the nation's tax bill—the biggest single new slice of revenue.

The withholding rate on salaries increases from 18 to 20 per cent. This is applied to income after deduction of exemptions—dependents.

Here are a few examples which show what the income tax boost means:

A single man with $3,000 net income will pay $542.40 annual tax; it used to be $488.

A married man with $5,000 net income and no children will pay $843.60 annual tax; formerly it was $760.

Buffalo Harbor Disaster Sifted

scot's skipper, Capt. Louis Guyette, 51. Another was the body of the freighter's helmsman, Roy Richardson, 56. The other body was that of an unidentified member of the Dauntless crew.

Six others from the Dauntless and one from the Morania are missing and presumed to be dead. Part of the harbor was closed for a time yesterday when the Morania, still carrying much of its cargo of 800,000 gallons of gasoline, drifted at anchor and officials feared friction might touch off another explosion.

However, the barge was reported secured late yesterday afternoon and the north part of the harbor was reopened.

Damage to the Dauntless has been estimated as high as its $350,000 value. A Nicholson official estimated damages to the 454-foot Penobscot at $200,000. Morania Barge, Inc., declined to say the extent of damage to the barge.

Classified Ads cost little but do a big job

A married man with $100,000 net income and two children will pay $56,032 annual tax; under the old law it was $51,912.

New Field Opened

The next biggest revenue producer will be the increase in corporation and excess profits taxes. These will raise an estimated $2,207,000,000 of extra money annually.

The basic rate on corporations earning more than $25,000 a year is hiked to 52 per cent from the present 47.

But you probably will run into the tax changes most often in the long list of increases in the excise taxes. There are a few decreases and eliminations, too.

Not all of these excise tax changes will be passed along to the consumer but most of them likely will be and in some cases the price hike will be more than the new tax.

One of the excises—a tax on all bets taken by professional gamblers—plows new ground. It has aroused interest all over the country, among the bookies and numbers operators and those who like to put a bet down now and then.

Few tax experts are willing to risk a prediction on how this one will turn out. Its congressional advocates said it would raise $400,000,000 a year, about 20 percent of the potential tax take from gambling.

Bother For Gamblers

Some gamblers over the country reportedly have screamed it would put them out of business. Members of the old Senate crime committee took the opposite view, arguing it would put Uncle Sam in partnership with the underworld.

A few gamblers have made tentative motions toward compliance by getting copies of the required treasury forms. It's the extensive reporting of their operations rather than the tax itself which is believed to bother most gamblers.

The tax rate is 10 per cent, levied on the gross wagers accepted by the gambler. He is supposed to keep daily records of money bet with him, and pay the tax monthly.

Besides, the professional gambler must buy a $50 occupational tax stamp, display it prominently, and give the treasury a list of his employees. All of this information would be open to public inspection including, perhaps, a prying district attorney. The gambling taxed is illegal in all states but Nevada.

The new levy does not hit legal pari-mutuel betting at race tracks. Nor does it apply to friendly, social games nor to casino gambling such as poker and roulette.

U. S. Studying Plans To Mobilize Top Inventors

CHECKING AN INVENTION are the two full-time employees of the National Inventors' Council, John C. Green (left) and Leonard Hardland. They're examining a new method of fastening .50 caliber shells together.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Uncle Sam wants to mobilize the nation's inventors for an all-out assault on the big "idea bottlenecks" holding up many vital military projects.

The National Inventors' Council, a semi-government outfit which acts as a go-between for Uncle Sam and the country's inventors, has already petitioned the Pentagon to start paying enough money for accepted ideas to inspire inventors to solve the big problems at hand.

Russia and England give tremendous rewards and privileges to inventors of useful military items. But the U. S. barely comes through with a "thank you." As a result, today, when the need for specific ideas and inventions is greater than ever, men of creative minds are apathetic about the service's problems.

Members of the Council include top-ranking industrialists, Army and Navy officers and patent experts. John C. Green and Leonard Hardland, full-time employees of the Council in the Departments of Commerce, give ideas and inventions their first screening.

Some of the pressing needs and problems for which the military is seeking outside help include:

- Improved fuels and lubricants for use in extreme cold.
- Machinery for fabricating and welding high-strength titanium.
- An adhesive tape which will stand up in hot or cold temperatures and against weathering.

A device capable of burrowing a large, vehicle-sized hole or tunnel through hard, compacted snow or solid ice.

New miniature radio equipment construction methods.

A rocket motor that will be completely used up after it delivers its power.

The inventor mobilization plan, being considered by the Council, would involve the preparation of a master list of those U. S. inventors not already employed by the government or by companies with big government contracts. Persons on the master list would be given some classified information on just how far the services have gone on certain projects plus some of the needs which are now kept secret.

Lack of this information causes many good scientists and inventors to spend years on problems which have already been solved. The big need is for a greater exchange of information between government and private inventors, says Hardland.

The master list would be limited to established inventors, men who would observe the restrictions on any classified information made available to them.

The Inventors' Council, which gets about 400 ideas and suggestions during a normal week, has greatly eased the red tape an individual inventor must go through in trying to sell something to the government. About five per cent of these ideas get further than the waste-basket. But still the red tape involved in getting an inventor credit and money for an accepted idea is fantastic.

If his idea isn't patentable, or if he neglects to patent it, the inventor isn't likely to get a cent for a good idea from Uncle Sam. If it is patentable and he does patent it, he practically has to give away all rights to it to get the government to use it or to put any further work on an idea.

Giving inventors more information about what's going on in various fields, and giving them more money for what they produce, are the two big factors in breaking the idea bottleneck, a patent expert for the Pentagon says. If we don't do something along these

Screen Writer Still Hunted After Wallet Is Found In Pacific

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (AP) — Search is continuing for screen writer William Scott Darling, 53, missing since Monday.

His wallet was found floating in the ocean Monday and his car was parked on the beach.

The screen writer is not to be confused with Art Director William A. Darling, 69, a three-time Academy Award winner for art direction.

Illness the past several days has recovered and is able to be about again.

The Associated Press erroneously list Screen Writer Darling as sharing an academy award for scripting "Anna and the King of Siam" in 1946. It was Art Director Darling who won the award, and it was for art direction. He also won awards for "Cavalcade" in 1933 and "Song of Bernadette" in 1943.

William A. Darling is retired and is living in Palm Springs, Calif.

Sunset Motel Being Erected

Thirteen Cottages Near Old Airport

Construction work is well under way on Sunset Motel, a group of 13 Colonial type overnight tourist cottages located on highway U. S. 2-41 near the old U. P. Airways airport at Wells.

Mrs. E. J. French, 1907 Ludington street, owner of Sunset Motel, said the cottages will be ready for occupancy in the early spring. Carl Arntzen had the contract for building the foundation, and Arvid Arntzen is doing the carpentry work. The cottages are made of prefabricated materials produced by Semco, Inc., of Seney.

Mrs. French will reside in the central unit, which will consist of a lobby and office with living quarters in the rear and a laundry in the basement.

Each cottage is 11 by 20 feet, and will be equipped with showers. Two are double units with sitting room, and two others may be used either double or single. The remainder are to be single units.

Suspended Tennessee Revenue Man Quits Due To Bad Health

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(P)—Lipe Henslee, who had been Tennessee's collector of internal revenue since 1939, has resigned his post because of bad health.

The 48-year-old official said he had just finished a physical examination and his doctor had advised him that the duties, tension and responsibilities of the office were too much of a burden.

Henslee suffered a heart attack in 1949 and has had recurrent "heart spasms."

The collector made his resignation effective immediately, to U. S. Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap.

Henslee had been under suspension at his own request. He asked to be suspended last week after Columnist Drew Pearson predicted in a radio broadcast that Henslee soon would be drawn into the nationwide investigation of the internal revenue department because of irregularities.

Boyer City Masonic Temple Destroyed In $150,000 Blaze

BOYER CITY, Mich.—(P)—The Masonic temple building here in ruins, victim of another in a series of major fires around the state.

Loss was estimated at $150,000. Fire at the temple building broke out Monday afternoon.

An explosion in a furnace under a restaurant in the two-story brick building touched off the blaze.

Firemen from East Jordan and Potosky and state conservation men joined Boyer City firemen in battling the wind-whipped flames.

Saginaw has had $500,000 and $200,000 fires in little over a week and Flint was hit by a $100,000 blaze Sunday.

Swallows Prove Pest For Jets In Korea

WITH TASK FORCE 77 IN KOREAN WATERS—(P)—Now you take swallows, the command-er said. They're almost as bad as flak or those Mig jets.

Seems like every time the fast jet Banshees take off from the carrier Essex a gang of those lumbering swallows gets in the way.

It was really rugged the other morning, said Commander M. E. Barnett, who heads the VF-172 squadron from Jacksonville, Fla. The squadron took off and ran in to at least 500 swallows.

"We had to split up to avoid a wholesale butchery," Barnett said. And if you don't believe it, look at that dent on Barnett's plane. That wasn't flak. That was a swallow, Bub.

One Soldier Likes To Stay In Korea; Collecting Stamps

EAST CENTRAL FRONT, Korea—(P)—Almost without exception American fighting men in Korea would much rather be somewhere else—preferably home. But there is an exception.

He's Sgt. Ralph Ripley, 2818 Southeast Washington St., Portland, Ore. Ripley likes Korea, but the army says he has to go home on rotation. He's piled up 112 points—almost three times the number needed to qualify for a trip back to Portland—and can't delay the trip any longer.

"If I gotta go, I gotta go," Ripley said sorrowfully. "But there's nothing to keep me from applying for Korean duty again after my furlough ends."

Ripley is a stamp collector, and the regimental postoffice he runs is a rich source of new stamps. He estimates the collection of 15,000 stamps he has built up over an 18-year period is worth $35,000.

Working in an army postoffice also has its drawbacks, as far as Ripley is concerned. He gets lots of stamps after he delivers letters, but many times he's tempted to snip off the unusual ones immediately.

"We have a big variety, but I can't touch them," the sergeant said. "There's a $300 fine if we get caught taking stamps off letters."

The stamps alone wouldn't keep Ripley in Korea. He likes "wide open spaces—places where the winter is cold and the summer hot." He doesn't like big cities, either.

"You're safe from women overseas, too," he added. "I had a lot of buddies who went back and they got hooked. I'm against marriage as long as I'm in the army."

The 30-year-old sergeant has 24 years to serve until he retires. Then he plans to settle down in Eastern Oregon.

"I may even get married then," he said.

Monoxide Poisoning To Take 40 Lives In Michigan This Winter

LANSING—(P)—Forty Michigan persons will die in the next few months from monoxide poisoning.

The State Health department, making that statement on the basis of past winter records, warned of three likely sources of death from the deadly gas.

One was running a car in a closed garage.

The second was fumes from a defective furnace.

The third was sleeping in a poorly ventilated place warmed by a space heater.

The fourth was parking in "lovely lane" with the car engine running.

The department said that snug, drowsy feeling may be death creeping up.

Oil-Fed Boats Replace Coal Burners On Lakes

BY DANIEL E. WRIGHT
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL
CLEVELAND—Oil-fed freighters gradually are replacing coal burners on the Great Lakes.

There are 268 boats on the lakes at present. They carry ore and grain from Duluth and Superior to lower lake ports such as Chicago, Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Buffalo. Up to March 31, 1950, about 99 percent of them burned coal.

Out of 14 new vessels now rising on the ways, however, only one will be bituminous fueled. The box score of all freighters now under construction or about to have their keels laid reads like this:

Fifteen will be oil-fed, three will burn coal and three others will use oil but will have coal bunkers installed for quick conversion if fuel prices skyrocket.

In addition six-ocean-going, oil-burning freighters are being converted for lake shipping. Also, four boats have been converted from coal to oil in the last year. And you can expect more conversions some lake shippers say.

Cleaner, More Efficient

The reason is that oil is cleaner, more efficient and gives more concentrated heat. Admittedly, it costs more to begin with but in the long run, some believe, there are actual cash savings.

One company estimates fuel cost to run the average boat is $1.66 a mile for coal and $1.80 for oil. "But you get three miles greater speed out of oil," one shipper said.

There's a big slash in labor costs when oil is used. Coal passers, paid $275 a month, are done away with. Also, oil takes less storage space on a boat.

There are two types of oil-burning boat—turbine and diesel. In the latter type, the oil is fed directly into the cylinders. In the former, oil is burned in the boilers and the steam goes to the top to drive the engines.

Last year, Pittsburgh Steamship Co., U. S. Steel subsidiary headquartered here, repowered two freighters, pulling the coal stokers out of both and installing diesel equipment in one and turbine machinery in the other. Performance of the tow ships for this season and next will be compared to determine which is more efficient, according to a company official.

Two Ships Converted
Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. here converted two ships to oil last year and a company official said there'll be more later. Cleveland Cliffs also is awaiting completion of a new oil burner and conversion of an ocean-going vessel which runs on oil.

Most lake shippers aren't breaking their necks to convert. They say that it costs about $850,000 to install a turbine when coal stokers are removed. And they're worried about possible jumps in oil prices.

"If the price of light oil jumps 1 cent, it'll cost us almost $24,000 to run one freighter for a full season," one notes. The season here speaks of usually runs from mid-April to mid-December, when ice begins to form.

Others say oil distributors haven't appeared too eager to get the lake carrier business. One shipper explained that up to this year there were only three fueling stations—Indiana Harbor, Ind. (near Chicago), Cleveland, and Lime Island, which is just below the Soo locks between Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

This year, three new ones were added—Buffalo, Detroit and Sarnia, Ont. Nevertheless, one shipping executive says, "We still can pull into any old post and load up on coal."

And he doesn't believe you'll see oil stations mushrooming overnight. He estimates it costs about $1 million to build such a station.

School Essay Proves Treat For Young Bill

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Young Billy Harrison thought it was a heckuva trick when his teacher announced an essay assignment. But for Billy, it turned out to be a pip of a treat.

Like the rest of his classmates in the eighth grade at Vandalia, Ill., 13-year-old Billy was told to write a five-part booklet describing his choice as a profession.

Billy thought it over. Then he saw a picture of the one-man, rocket-type helicopter being developed for the navy and marine corps.

Marines Come Through
That did it. Billy decided to be a marine.

To get information, Billy penned a letter to the marine air corps recruiting station here. It read:

"Dear sir:
"In Mrs. Blower's room we have been studying about planning your future. I have had a desire to join the marine air corp. I would like to fly a single man fighter. Could you please send me information concerning this, thank you?"

Like most people who tangle with the marines, Billy got more than he bargained. Col. C. J. O'Donnell, officer in charge of the midwestern division of the marines, wrote a reply.

O'Donnell granted Billy a firsthand look at marine facilities here. Not just a glance, but a day-long, wide-eyed look.

Gets Gold Wings
Billy's tour is all set. Lt. Col. H. E. Allen, commanding officer of the marine air detachment here, will give a run-down on marine aviation including, of course, a description of the one-man helicopter.

copter.
After that Bill will be presented the gold wings of a marine fighter pilot.

He will also receive an official drawing of the helicopter.
There'll be other presents and a visit to Lamber field, plus taci trip in a new marine fighter plane. After that it's back to Vandalia to get started on that five-part booklet.

Management Suggestions

If artificial lights are used, we recommend their use in the morning only, so birds go to roost in the natural way at night. The working day for layers should not exceed twelve to fourteen hours.

Provide at least 3 square feet of floor space and 8 to 10 running inches of perch room for birds. Roost poles should be 14 inches apart. Provide at least 16 to 20 open nests to each 100 birds, and double this amount if trap nesting. Nests 12 inches wide and 14 inches deep for light breeds and 2 inches larger each way for heavy breeds are recommended. Locate nests in a secluded section away from the light.

Remember, keep Flambo Mash, Pellets, or Grainlets before your layers at all times together with oystershell, grit and plenty of fresh water.

Good feed plus good care means greater production and bigger profits for you.

Hardboard Plants Grow To Utilize Wood Waste

IT COMES OUT HERE: A blanket of hardboard comes out of a press. The material is used in homes, cars, furniture and many other items.

By NEA Service
PORTLAND, Ore.—(NEA)—A new wood products industry is springing up in the Pacific Northwest, in the heart of the nation's largest virgin forests. Wood waste is being turned into usable sheets of hardboard.

By early next year, a string of seven new hardboard plants, costing well over $15,000,000, will be in operation. It's the biggest thing in lumber since the advent of the Douglas fir plywood industry more than 25 years ago.

Hardboard is another answer to the timberman's continual search for new uses for wood waste. It is what the name implies. Wood waste is chewed up until it has lost its original cell structure and then pressed into boards under terrific pressure and heat. The result is a board of metal-hard surface.

The seven new plants, plus others now in the organizational stage, will turn out 850,000 square feet daily. That means that the nation's supply of hardboard will rise by nearly 40 per cent.

Hardboard has many uses. In homes, it makes ceilings in attics, floors and cabinets. The automobile industry uses it for shelves over spare tires and backs of bus seats. Furniture makers use the material for everything from table tops to drawer bottoms.

It wasn't until 1948 that a foot of hardboard was made west of the Mississippi. The first hardboard was made at Laurel, Miss. There are other plants in the mid-west and the south now, and two already operating in Oregon.

Sawmills and plywood companies are getting into the act. At Longview, Wash., the big Long-Bell Lumber Co., will press its waste wood into hardboard. At Lebanon, Ore., the large Cascades Plywood Co. will utilize wood shavings.

The trend in this area toward hardboard wasn't an overnight decision. Since its organization in 1945, the Plymouth Research Foundation at Tacoma, Wash., has been testing the material. The research has shown sawmills and plywood plants that they can use virtually everything that comes from a high-priced log. Scrap wood sold to a pulp mill might bring only $5 to $6.50 per ton; the same amount of wood chewed up and pressed into hardboard will return $18 to $20.

The general process of making hardboard is similar to that used in paper making. After the wood waste has been reduced to chips, it is heated and pulped, and resin and other chemicals are added. This wet mixture is spread on a blanket and a vacuum under the blanket sucks the water from the fibres while they are en route to the press. The heat and pressure are so great that a two-inch-thick wet pulpy blanket is reduced down to a quarter-inch-thick panel of hardboard.

Adventists Will Boost Red Cross First Aid Work

Escanaba Seventh Day Adventist church members are urged to step up their Red Cross first aid training program in a directive from denominational leaders meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, last week for their annual autumn council.

Since first aid training was launched eight months ago as a part of the church's civil defense program, 8,000 members have completed junior, standard or advanced courses. The program has produced 85 accredited Red Cross instructor-trainers and 400 instructors, J. Wayne McFarland, M.D., medical director of the project, announced.

During the ten-day session, the Adventist churchmen heard leaders of the denomination's ten overseas divisions report that "prospects were never brighter for Christian missions in most areas of the world. The political and economic conditions that create new and difficult problems for the missionary also stimulate a deeper interest in the gospel as the only remedy for the fears and distress of vast areas of the world's population."

Wilhelm Mueller, Adventist church leader from Berlin reported a 75 per cent membership increase in Germany since the war and the rebuilding of 253 of the 450 church buildings destroyed by bombs.

In response to appeals for more workers and enlarged facilities, the council voted the largest foreign missions budget in the history of the church. The $17 million total for overseas and special projects at home does not include local church funds.

Adventists have established nearly 800 schools since 1948, making a total of 4,438 colleges, academies and elementary schools around the world, E. J. Johanson,

Efforts For Cancer Control Hit Payoff

By MARION BURSON
WASHINGTON—(P)—Although no sensational cure for cancer has been found, efforts to control the disease have had a "real payoff."

This encouraging word comes from Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, surgeon general of the U. S. Public Health Service.

He bases his view on the survival of an increasing proportion of cancer victims. The total number of deaths from cancer is going up.

Dr. Scheele explained that this is because cancer essentially is a disease of older persons, a steadily growing segment of our population.

Early Diagnosis Helps
So the number of known cancer cases is larger than ever before. This means more deaths. But the proportion of cancer patients who respond to treatment also is rising.

This is particularly true, Dr. Scheele said, of patients with "accessible" cancers—easily located tumors of the type that would cause any doctor to become suspicious.

Early diagnosis and improved surgical techniques are the main reasons more and more cancer victims are living out a normal life span, he told a reporter.

Research in the dread disease was Dr. Scheele's principal concern before President Truman appointed him surgeon general in 1948. At that time he was a director of the National Cancer Institute.

As surgeon general he has overall supervision of this institute as well as six others dealing with heart disease, arthritis and metabolic diseases, dental research, mental health, neurological diseases and blindness and microbiological diseases.

Youngest On Record
All these, making up the national institutes of health, are located in Bethesda, Md., a short distance from Washington.

A graduate of the University of Michigan and the Wayne University Medical school, Dr. Scheele maintaining his permanent residence in Detroit. He was born in Ft. Wayne, Ind., where his pharmacist father has run a drug store for the last 50 years.

Now 44, Dr. Scheele was only 40 when appointed the government's No. 1 doctor. This made him the youngest of the seven surgeons general since the position was created in 1870.

He entered the 152-year-old public health service directly from internship at the Marine hospital in Chicago. His early assignments were routine; Foreign quarantine posts in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Honolulu; then duty as health officer for Queen Anne's County, Md., a

Enters New Field

In 1937 he was assigned to the National Cancer Institute for advanced training in cancer diagnosis, treatment and research. There he studied cancer control, a field that had not yet been widely accepted in public health practice.

Under a fellowship at Memorial hospital in New York under a noted cancer authority, the late Dr. James Ewing, Dr. Scheele made an independent research into the costs of care of cancer patients.

He organized the public health service's first cancer control program. World War II interrupted these activities. On the day after Pearl Harbor he was assigned to civil defense work.

Later in the war he served with the army in Italy and went to London in 1944 as medical member of General Eisenhower's staff for civil affairs and military government in northwest Europe. He moved to the continent after D-Day.

His major responsibilities there were the health of the civilian populations and control of epidemics. France awarded him the Legion of Merit and Croix de Guerre for his work.

He returned to the National Cancer Institute in 1946 as assistant-director and became director the following year.

Now, as surgeon general, cancer is only one of his concerns.

Heavy German migration to the U. S. began after 1848.

Clothing Assured
U. S. Troops In Korea

WASHINGTON — (P) — A Senate Armed Services subcommittee said it has been assured that ample supplies of warm clothing will be available for U. S. troops in Korea if the fighting continues into the winter.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas) said the subcommittee on military preparedness sent inquiries to the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps because of "fears expressed by some men in Korea that they would be inadequately clothed against the rigors of the coming winter."

He quoted the departments as saying there are now on hand in Korea sufficient stocks of cold weather clothing to supply all personnel until the end of December and that additional shipments now on the way would take care of the men's needs for the rest of the winter.

Belgium Leads Europe In Boosting Democracy

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
BRUSSELS, Belgium—(NEA)—This prosperous and tight little country is off the beaten track of world communication. Less news comes out of Belgium for publication in the world press than perhaps any other country in Europe. Yet it is a good story.

Belgium has probably come closer to achieving the ideals of American democracy than any other country in Europe. It is strictly a free enterprise country. In this it is in marked contrast to Great Britain. Nothing is nationalized in Belgium except distribution of electric power. Belgium's great political figure, Paul Henri Spaak, has frequently declared that the United States has more "socialism" in its economy than Belgium.

This in itself is something of a paradox. Belgium is constitutionally a monarchy with a king. Yet its Chamber of Deputies, corresponding to the U. S. House of Representatives, is made up of 115

Christian Socialists, 70 Socialists, 20 Liberals and 7 Communists. This Communist strength, incidentally, represents a reduction from 23 Communist deputies in 1946. Belgium has done more to stamp out communism than almost any other country in Europe.

Labor in Belgium is highly organized, as in the United States. It has had its share of strikes. Labor unions won broad concessions tying wage levels to the cost of living. Labor leaders are in the process of forcing an excess-profits tax on business. Business leaders here recognize, as does enlightened management in the United States, the legitimate demands of workers. There is a high degree of paternalism on the part of Belgian employers towards their employees. The Belgian people demand and get a high standard of living.

Beat Down Inflation
Right after the war they put their country through the wringer. They beat down all the inflationary forces. They stabilized their currency. The result is that today the Belgian franc is as sound as any currency in Europe, including the Swiss franc. Belgian trade is balanced. Belgium needs no Marshall Plan aid, though her unique position requires some adjustment with other economies of Europe.

Belgium today has grabbed on to the big idea of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European Army in an exemplary manner. Hating communism, knowing that it was incompatible with their concept of a free country, the realists of Belgium backed the North Atlantic Treaty.

In 1949 Belgium had one division at two-thirds full strength. By next July she will have three full divisions. Her Navy and Air Force expansion, starting from scratch, is even more impressive.

Belgium has two-year conscription. Her full mobilization program will give her the equivalent of one division for every two-and-a-half million inhabitants. If every other NATO country did as well, there would be 50 European divisions for General Eisenhower to command. And there would be no need to have U. S. troops stationed in Europe.

Financially, the Belgians have done equally as well. With a gross national product of approximately $52 billion, Belgium has a total government budget of $16 billion and a defense budget of $4.6 billion for next year. This is roughly 9 per cent of the total Belgian economy earmarked for defense.

U. S. Helping Belgians
A team of some 50 U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force officers under Brig.-Gen. N. A. Burnell, head of the Belgian "MAAG" or Military Assistance Advisory Group, is now helping the country plan and train its expanded military establishment. Like France, Belgium has standardized on U. S. weapons and organization.

In 1938 Belgium had no Navy and very little Air Force. A group of merchant ship captains escaped from the Nazis and under British training, formed the nucleus for today's Navy. Similarly, some 200 young pilots trained with the British to form the basis for today's Air Force. The future Belgian defense force will include two Army corps of four divisions each, a Navy of eight mine sweepers, transport and escort flotillas and an eight-group Air Force.

Not only that, but Belgian industry is being geared into European defense production for an important role. Jet engines are actually being produced. An anti-aircraft rockets program has just started. A Belgian-developed anti-tank rifle grenade is so good it has been adopted by U. S. forces in Korea. After 1952, Belgium will make all its own ammunition.

Contracts have been let for Belgian military-truck production by 1953. Belgian jeeps are already being assembled. They will build hulls for some of their own ships, though electronic gear will have to be supplied by the U. S. for some time.

Eventually, Belgium hopes to make her own armaments except artillery larger than 105 mm. and tanks. Also, Belgium will have excess industrial capacity in which she should be able to make some

Apple Contest Winners And Prize Recipes Are Announced

Prize-winners and their recipes in the favorite apple recipe contest sponsored by the Michigan State Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Apple Commission have been announced.

The contest in which nearly 3,000 Michigan homemakers, representing cities, villages and rural communities took part, was divided into four classifications, apples in desserts, with meats, with vegetables and in salads.

Winner in the Apples with Meat division was Mrs. Orland Boerma, 3513 Dearborn Street, Flint. Here is her prize "Ham-Apple-Yam Casserole" recipe:

1 slice smoked ham (1-1 1/2 pounds)
4 medium tart apples (cored)
4 medium sweet potatoes or yams
2/3 cup seedless raisins
1/3 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 lemon slices.

Place ham in bottom of large, deep baking dish. Cover with an inch of water. Place cored apples that have been stuffed with raisins upright on top of ham. Peel yams, slice them thinly and fit in between apples. Sprinkle brown sugar over top, dot with butter, top with lemon slices. Cover and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees F. or until all ingredients are tender. Serves 4.

Apples in Salad

Winner in the Apples in Salads division was Mrs. Warren Leeuw, Route 2, Greenville. Here is her prize "Jellied Apple Salad" recipe:

3 or 4 large red eating apples (Jonathans are fine)
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
2 cups hot water
1/2 cup blanched almonds, cut into strips (other nuts may be used)
1/2 cup finely diced celery
1/2 cup finely diced apples
1/8 teaspoon salt.

Select large, choice apples. Wash and cut away a slice from the stem end. Remove as much of the pulp as possible, leaving a shell about one-third inch thick. Rub the inside of the apples with lemon to prevent discoloration. In the meantime, dissolve the gelatin in hot water and cool until it begins to thicken. Add the nutmeats, celery, apple and salt and fill the apple cases with the mixture. Chill until firm. To serve, cut the filled apples crosswise into slices about one-third inch thick. Serve on crisp lettuce with salad dressing. Equal parts of boiled dressing or mayonnaise and whipped cream make an excellent dressing.

Halloween Mask Ball Is Held At Senior High

The student council of the Escanaba senior high school sponsored the annual Halloween masquerade ball last night in the high school gymnasium. The gym was decorated in the Halloween motif with witches, pumpkins, cats, and skeletons eerily floating about the walls while clowns, scarecrows, Chinese, sailors and a variety of other costumed persons danced to the music of Chet Marrier.

A floor show was emceed by Nick Prokos and presented a variety of talent from the school. Beth Parker, a junior, sang "Because of You" and was accompanied by the Marrier Five. Judy and Joan Santamore participated in a duet, "September Song." Charles Rose, a talented junior, played several boogie woogie numbers on the piano.

Six teachers, Jack Magnuson, Helen Holmberg, Margaret Behan, Nelly Barstow, Frances Roti, and Marian Nelson, appeared as gray mice. They added to the gaiety of the occasion by completely mystifying the student body as to their identity.

Boys' prizes went to a sophomore, Bob Peterson, first, who came as an African witch doctor; Paul Baldwin, second, a senior who dressed as a knight; Ted Rouman, third, a senior who masqueraded as a French sailor.

Pat Ellingsen, a senior, won first prize among the girls for her bearded pirate costume. Second prize for girls went to a sophomore, Paula Johnston, who played the part of a French girl. Another sophomore, Carol Nault, received third prize for her authentic Chinese costume.

Couple prizes went to Judy Beauchamp and Warren Johnston, first; Jackie Roberts and Florence Couture, second; and Lulabelle and Janet Shananaquet, third.

Avoid scalding accidents by lifting the lid of a boiling pot in such a way as to allow steam to rush out on the side that's away from you. Thick, but pliable pot holders are a necessary item in every kitchen; a doubled-up dishcloth or dish towel is a poor substitute.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William W. Walker, who passed away six years ago today November 1, 1945.

We haven't forgotten today is the day.

Life is so lonely, since you are away.

We shall remember you as long as there are fields of snow.

And there are flowers in the ground, that have the strength to grow.

We shall remember you today and dream of you tonight.

And look for you tomorrow when the sun begins to light.

Whatever season, month or year this much will be the same: The only joy will be the mention of your name.

We shall remember you as long as there is earth and sky. And all the time eternity may take to say goodbye.

Sadly missed by his wife and children Mrs. Dona F. Walker, Avis, Patsy, Gail, Gary and Ward.

Appeal Made For More Rooms For Conference Boys

An indicated attendance of out-of-town boys far in excess of expectations has compelled the local committee of the Upper Peninsula Older Boys' Conference to issue a new and frantic appeal for additional accommodations.

Carl Olson, local chairman, said yesterday afternoon that outside attendance will be at least 284, approximately 50 in excess of the original estimate.

"This leaves us short of accommodations for about 40 boys", Olson said.

"Manistique people already offered us splendid cooperation, but we did not expect such an unusually large outside attendance", Olson continued.

"We must find lodgings Friday night and breakfasts Saturday morning for these boys who are coming here as the community's guests."

Persons willing to open their homes for one or more boys are

Attendance Record May Be Set At U. P. Boys' Meeting Here

Attendance at the 38th annual Upper Peninsula Older Boys' Conference here Friday and Saturday may set a record, it was indicated yesterday afternoon.

A total of 433 boys will be attending, an estimate late yesterday indicated, with a possibility that the figure may be increased by the end of registration tomorrow afternoon.

A total of 284 boys from other Upper Peninsula communities will be present, and the local delegation will number 149, the latest estimate revealed.

Registration is scheduled at the high school from 12 to 3 tomorrow afternoon, and the first conference session is slated for 3 p. m. in the auditorium. A short concert by the Manistique high school band and the playing of the national anthem will officially open the convocation.

Amateur Program

If it is inconvenient for any hostess to have the boys register between 12 and 3, the high school office should be notified and other arrangements will be made. Boys will be free to visit their hostess at 5 p. m. shortly before the group meal at churches.

An evening session tomorrow begins at 7, to be followed by an amateur program in the auditorium at 9. The program follows:

Master of ceremonies, J. Earl Cousineau.

Violin solo, "Fiddling the Fiddle" by Rubino, Rev. Paul Sobel.

Trumpet solo, "My Friendship Concert Polka," by Charles W. Storm, James Monroe.

Pantomime under the direction of Marvin Frederickson, Nick Babladelis and Mac Howland.

Accordion solo, "Scherzo in E" urged to call the high school principal's office, No. 106, either tonight or tomorrow forenoon.

Michigan Winds Up Drills For Illinois Tilt Saturday

ANN ARBOR—(P)—Michigan winds up preparation today for the game that many think will decide the ultimate western conference champion.

The Wolverines in good physical shape, will go into the game against unbeaten Illinois at Champaign a one to two touchdown underdog.

The Illini ranked among the top 10 football teams of the nation, are banking to win with a fleet corps of backs headed by Johnny Karras, that has carried them victoriously past UCLA, Syracuse, and Washington outside the league and Wisconsin and Indiana in conference play.

Sharp End
Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's Wolverines, victors over three conference foes—Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota—will throw their sharpest weapon, brilliant end Lowell Perry, against the Illini.

Beaten in non-league starts against Michigan State and Stanford, Michigan features a multifaceted passing attack that poses a threat at every backfield position.

One of the top games in the nation, the Michigan-Illinois clash will jam to its 71,119 seat capacity the Illinois Memorial stadium.

The game brings together the conference's second ranked team on offense and the second ranked defensive team.

Michigan, averaging 36 points a game in three loop contests, is rated second only to Wisconsin on offense. And Illinois, yielding an average of five points a game in league contests with Wisconsin and Indiana, is second to the Badgers on defense.

On paper, the Illini are a more potent offensive combination than their ranking of seventh in the Big Ten would indicate. In two games, Illinois has averaged 284 yards.

Karras and his fleet backfield mates, Don Stevens and Bill Tate, are the breakaway type runners that can go all the way at any time.

Quarterbacking the Illini T-formation club is Tom O'Connell, a smooth-passing sophomore who functions as a thrower only to augment the powerful Illinois running game.

"No Name" Backfield
Michigan, with a "No Name" backfield of Bill Putich and Wes Bradford at halfbacks, quarterback Ted Topor and fullback Don Peterson relies strictly on team performance throughout.

The Wolverine line, built around Perry and stout tackle Tom Johnson, has been good on both offense and defense against the lesser lights of the conference.

Backed by rugged Roger Zatkoff on defense, the Wolverines have yielded 13.7 points average per game.

Michigan was cheered by the announcement that Bradford's army induction will not materialize until Nov. 29 after the season ends.

The Wolverines, with mounting spirit, raced through a long practice session yesterday with the emphasis split between defensive play against the Illinois style of offense and passing attack.

Oosterbaan ran them through a long offensive scrimmage with every back in the camp throwing to the corps of Wolverine ends.

The squad will board a train Friday morning for Champaign where an afternoon limbering workout is planned.

Packers Engage Lions On Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The Green Bay Packers, back in a second place tie in the National conference of the National Football League, engage the powerful Detroit Lions in a crucial contest here Sunday afternoon. Kickoff is set for 1:30.

With a 3-2 record, the Packers are tied with the San Francisco Forty Niners and Los Angeles Rams behind the Chicago Bears who have 3-1. Detroit is third with a record of two wins, two losses and one tie. The Packers, by winning, can virtually knock the Lions out of title contention.

Green Bay's 29-27 victory over the Yanks in New York Sunday tied the Packers' "win" record of 1950 when they finished with 3-9. The Packers have seven games left in which to better the mark and finish with the best record since 1947 when the team closed with 6-5-1. The Yanks won three in 1948 and two in 1949.

The Packers are looking at the Lions as something of an unexpected bomb. Detroit was rated last summer as one of the teams to bear for the 1951 championship but the club lost two and tied one in its last three games, losing to the Los Angeles Rams and Chicago Bears and tying the Yanks.

Prophetic Names Pop Up As Race Winners

NEW ORLEANS — (P)—There was prophetic handwriting on the wall of many a bookie joint here last night on the eve of the new federal gambling tax.

Three winning horses were Excise Tax, Curtain Time and For Rent.

The first two won at Garden State, the third at Pimlico.

Galileo demonstrated in 1632 that the earth revolved around the sun.

Campanella Named Most Valuable In National Loop

NEW YORK—(P)—Roy Campanella will always remember 1951.

Throughout the year the husky, hard-hitting catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was hampered by injuries, but now Campanella has reaped the fruits of his labors. He was named yesterday as the National league's most valuable player for the past season by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Campanella is only the third catcher since 1931 to win the coveted award. The other receivers to gain the honor were Gabby Hartnett of the 1935 Chicago Cubs and Ernie Lombardi of the 1938 Cincinnati Reds.

The 29-year-old Dodger star collected 243 points out of a possible 336 to win in a breeze. Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, winning his fifth batting title with a .355 average, finished second with 191 points. Points were awarded on 14 for first place vote, nine for second and so on down to one for tenth.

Surprised
Campanella, reached in Houston where his all-star exhibition team is stopping was surprised when informed that he had won the award.

"I had forgotten all about that award," he said. "After we were beaten in the playoff by the New York Giants, I just didn't think about it any more."

"I surely am happy about it now. I gave my best and I surely am grateful to the Baseball Writers Association for voting me in."

Campanella's selection marked the sixth time since 1931 that a player not on a pennant winner won the award. The others were, Chuck Klein, Philadelphia, 1932; Ducky Medwick, St. Louis, 1937; Lombardi, Cincinnati, 1938; Bob Elliott, Boston, 1947 and Musial, St. Louis, 1948.

The star backstop drew 11 first place votes while Musial, only player named on every ballot, collected two. Trailing Musial were, Monte Irvin, New York, third,

ROY CAMPANELLA

Sal Maglie, New York, fourth, Preacher Roe, Brooklyn, fifth, Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn, sixth, Richie Ashburn, Philadelphia, seventh, Bobby Thomson, New York, eighth, Murry Dickson, Pittsburgh, ninth and Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, tenth.

Some 58 players received votes of honorable mention but Jim Konstanty, Philadelphia's relief pitcher and the 1950 winner failed to draw either a vote or honorable mention.

Great Season

Campanella enjoyed a great season despite his series of injuries. The collapse of the Dodgers who blew a 13½ game lead and lost the pennant to the Giants in a playoff, was no fault of Roy's.

The well liked receiver's injury string began last January when an oil-burner in his home exploded and nearly blinded him. Campanella suffered a slight fracture of his right thumb during spring training.

During the season he was spiked on the hand, had arm trouble and was hit on the head by a pitched ball by Chicago's Turk Lown. On the final day of the regular season Campanella pulled a muscle in his left thigh and caught only the first of the three playoff games against the Giants.

Despite these injuries Campanella played in 140 games. He batted .325, fourth highest in the league, drove in 108 runs and poled 33 home runs.

ST. JOE HOMECOMING—Queen Bonnie Jean Collins was crowned queen of the St. Joe homecoming game against Munising. Gerry Buchalk and Jean Polmarter flank the queen. Pete Kutches, St. Joe grid captain, presents the queen with a bouquet of roses. The queen was selected by senior gridders on the St. Joe team.

Grid Letters To 22 At Banquet

Midwest Football

OHIO STATE—Coach Woody Hayes is expecting Northwestern to concentrate on a running attack Saturday and, with two regular defenders injured, he has shifted two offensive linemen to the defensive team . . . They are Tackle George Jacoby and Guard Jim Reichenbach, replacing Julie Wittman and Steve Ruzich . . .

Northwestern—Bob Voigts, Wildcat coach, is shifting his linemen around, too . . . Five offensive linemen have been working out at defensive slots . . .

Iowa—Things look much brighter in the Hawkeye camp now, with Quarterback Burt Britzmann continuing a rapid recovery from a knee injury . . . Britzmann is expected to play against Minnesota . . .

Wisconsin—The Big Ten's leading passer, John Coatta, is taking it easy because of a weak ankle . . . The Badgers haven't looked too good in practice this week for the Indiana game . . .

Marquette—College of the Pacific is the Hilltop opponent Friday night and Coach Lisle Blackburn is pouring on more and more steam in an effort to stoke a highpowered offense . . .

Minnesota—Halfback George Hudak has rejoined the Gopher squad after a suspension for scholastic difficulties . . . Cold weather and snow have limited the squad to non-scrimmage work this week . . .

Michigan—A growing determination to beat favored Illinois is mounting in the Wolverine camp . . . Coach Bennie Oosterbaan indicates he thinks the way to victory lies in a passing game . . .

Michigan State—An open date this week-end has given the Spartans a chance to take it easy . . . Their first practice this week was yesterday . . .

Purdue—Quarterback Dale Samuels may be the only experienced man starting in the Boilermaker backfield against Penn State . . . Sophomore Max Schmaling looks like the choice for fullback, with freshman Rex Brock and sophomore James Whitmer at the halves . . .

Indiana—Freshman Florian Helinski of Hurley, Wis., is in line for the punting assignment against Wisconsin . . . Another frosh, defensive end Merle Reed, has been advanced to the varsity . . .

Notre Dame—Forward pass defense is getting extra attention from Coach Frank Leahy as he worries about the heaves of Navy Quarterback Bob Zastrow . . .

Illinois—Coach Ray Eliot has discontinued contact work this week to cut down on injuries . . . He wants his squad in the best physical condition for the important game with Michigan Saturday . . .

Michigan State Has Open Date

EAST LANSING—(P)—Michigan State was back to the practice grind today, rearing for the football meeting with Notre Dame here 10 days from now.

Coach Biggie Munn planned to make up at the tail end of the week for the three days of rest since the Pittsburgh game last Saturday.

"There will be scrimmages through the week," Munn said. "Saturday we'll scrimmage in the stadium."

Screen Spectators
Spectators were carefully screened for the two hour workout Wednesday afternoon in the secret practice field.

At least one lineup change was indicated as the offensive unit started running through its plays.

Captain Bob Carey was back at left end and running out for passes although he is still recuperating from his hip bruise and neck injury. Paul Dekker, the big-bodied Muskegon junior, was the starter at right end.

Dekker, a replacement so far this year, now is the top end in the pass snatching department. Both he and Bob Carey have taken in a dozen each but Dekker has a 178 yard total to 135 yards for Carey.

Pass Defense
"Bill Carey, the previous regular at right end, has caught one pass for 11 yards but has been outstanding in his offensive blocking. Dekker, however, looks the logical choice as a starter at the position."

The defensive backs and safety-men were kept running until they streamed with sweat despite the chill during a long session on pass defense. The coaches concentrated on making the pass protectors stay glued to the ends as they ran zig-zag patterns down the field, trying to get in the clear and make a catch.

Greenwood, authoritative sources said, felt the officials allowed too much roughness to develop and believed his school should have followed it up with a protest.

Picks Illinois, Badgers To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK — (P)—A party bore and a football are the same thing—just a bag of win.

Here are winners of the coming weekend's football games:

Illinois over Michigan: Both are undefeated in the Big Ten this season and neither apparently is as strong as its record indicates. Karras of Illinois, already has scored 10 touchdowns this season and needs only three more to tie the mark first set by Granger. He'll get enough points in this game to beat Michigan.

Tennessee over North Carolina: Even with its flock of injuries, Tennessee is favored over a North Carolina team that hasn't reached its full potential.

Princeton over Brown: The nation's longest current winning streak goes to 19, unless Princeton has spent all week reliving that tremendous victory over Cornell.

Baylor over Texas Christian: Larry Isbell, the Baylor star, is just as good as he needs to be. That should pull the Baylor through.

Notre Dame over Navy: The Irish may be predominately freshmen and sophomores but they know their way around, especially if their playground is a football field.

Alabama over Georgia: Two of the season's biggest disappointments try to salvage something.

Wisconsin over Indiana: Wisconsin boasts the strongest defense in the nation and Bob Robertson, one of Indiana's best backs, just has been drafted by Uncle Sam.

Texas over Southern Methodist: This should be every bit as good as last year's 23 to 20 thriller, won by Texas.

Georgia Tech over Duke: That defensive platoon of the Georgians is a beauty.

Maryland over Missouri: Maryland seems headed for the Sugar bowl and this season Missouri hasn't been headed anywhere.

California over UCLA: California is a two-touchdown favorite but it could be much, much closer.

Southern California over Army: If the Trojans "want" this game it could become a young massacre.

Tigers Sift Offers From Triple-A Teams

DETROIT — (P)—General Manager Charlie Gehringer of the Detroit Tigers said today the club is sifting several offers for working agreements from Triple-A teams.

Gehringer said Columbus (O.) of the American Association and San Diego of the Pacific Coast league were among those who have offered to enter working agreements with Detroit.

The Tigers sold their Triple-A farm at Toledo, O., yesterday for "more than $100,000." It had been a consistent money loser and a second-division finisher. A syndicate of Hollywood and Toledo men bought it.

Greco, Williams In 10-Round Ring Draw

BALTIMORE — (P)—Johnny Greco, Canadian welterweight champion, and Don Williams of Worcester, Mass., fought to a 10-round draw last night when the judges and the referee couldn't agree on the outcome.

The fast-moving bout, which drew only a small crowd here, was broadcast and telecast coast-to-coast on CBS networks. Only 215 attended the fight. They paid $498.50.

Referee Eddie Leonard scored it 5 and 4 for Williams, with one round even. Judge Bill Ellis gave Greco the advantage, 5-3 with two rounds even, and Judge Benny Goldstein called it even at five round each.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Baltimore—Johnny Greco, 152, Montreal, and Don Williams, 146½, Worcester, Mass., drew, 10.

Miami Beach, Fla.—Charlie Zivic, 157, Pittsburgh, stopped Bobby Elliott, 149½, Louisville, Ky., 6.

Spokane—Hank Thurman, 202, Los Angeles, knocked out George Farmer, 232, Kellogg, Idaho, 2.

Final U. P. High School Grid Standings Listed

Upper Peninsula high school football (with one exception) concluded last weekend with four unbeaten, untied teams on the final list.

Offensively, the Newberry Indians led U. P. eleventh the past season with 276 points in eight games. Menominee scored 203, Stambaugh 137 and Powers 197 to round out the top four.

Powers had the best defensive team in the Peninsula as Coach Jerry Anzalone's little Tigers held opponents to two touchdowns.

Poorest defensive team was Norway. The Vikings allowed a total of 205 points against them in eight games. Poorest offensive mark was posted by Calumet with 41 points scored in eight outings.

Following are the final standings pending the result of the Marquette-Ishpeming game Saturday:

Louis Asks More Time To Consider His Future Plans

NEW YORK — (P)—Admitting that he has come to "a turn in the road," ex-heavyweight champion Joe Louis wants more time to think over his future plans.

Louis issued a statement yesterday — apparently prompted by the action of the Illinois Athletic commission which said it would not permit him to fight in that state—asking the public to "bear with me while I think out my future plans."

The statement said nothing about retiring, a move which has been predicted freely by those close to the old Brown Bomber after his knockout by Rocky Marciano last week. They still think, though, that he never will fight again.

"Many people," he said, "undoubtedly kindly disposed and in all good will, have had varied opinions on my future."

But, he said he would make no definite announcement until his return from an exhibition tour of Japan. He is scheduled to leave for Seattle on the first leg of the trip on Nov. 10.

Final Results

Trojans, Eskymos Will See Packer Grid Game Sunday

St. Joe and Escanaba football players will see big time football as the pros play it Sunday afternoon in Green Bay, Wis.

The Trojans and Eskymos will take in the Packer - Detroit Lions National Football League clash at City Stadium. Expenses have been raised by fans and backers of the teams. Tickets are purchased and all arrangements have been made.

Coaching staffs of both teams will accompany the gridders.

Wisconsin Dominates Big Ten Statistics

CHICAGO —(P)—When you figure it out, Wisconsin should be a cinch for the Big Ten football title.

The Badgers dominate Big Ten team statistics released today, and their individual stars outshine all others.

Wisconsin, however, is in third place in Western conference standings behind Michigan and Illinois. The Badgers, although winning twice, have lost to Illinois, and played a tie with Ohio State.

Both Michigan and Illinois are undefeated and untied, but that situation will continue only a couple of days. They meet in the Big Ten headline game Saturday.

Statistics show that Wisconsin, after four title games, ranks as the Big Ten's leader both on offensive and defense.

Best Defensively
The Badgers held the top defensive spot last week and then 41-0 rout of Northwestern enhanced their figures in this category. The average yardage gained against Wisconsin by Big Ten opponents is only 147.5 a game. The Badgers also lead the nation's major teams defensively, yielding 161.6 yards a game to all opponents this season.

Off their lacing of previously unbeaten Northwestern, the Badgers also have taken over as offensive leaders. They set a one-game total offense record of 572 yards against the Wildcats and increased their pre-game average to 577 yards. This figures out to 198.5 yards a game rushing and 178.5 yards passing.

Other Marks
In addition to this display of team strength, Wisconsin also can claim:

1. The Big Ten's individual passing and total offense leader, John Coatta, with 679 and 622 yards, respectively.

2. The conference's leading ground gainer, Freshman Alan Ameche, who has totaled 391 yards on 76 rushes.

3. Highest scorer, Jerry Witt, who has 36 points.

Illinois ranks second as a team defensively, yielding 240 yards a game. Michigan trails the Badgers offensively, averaging 322.3 yards a game.

One year of silent sorrow, One year of grief and pain, Our hearts are still lonely. Since you went to your new home, Life does not seem the same. Since you were called away, The blow was hard, the shock severe, Our hearts still ache with pain, Our eyes shed many a tear. God only knows how we miss you At the end of these sad years. Time cannot heal our aching hearts, Nor from our memory tear The form and face we loved so well Will fade forever there. No one knows the heartaches, Only those who lost can tell. Of the grief that is borne in silence, For the one we loved so well. You are not forgotten, Kenneth, Dear, Nor will you ever be, While life and memory last We will remember thee. In our home is a vacant place, And we often speak your name. And how happy we would be, If you were with us, too.

Sadly missed by his WIFE, HELEN BOLM.
MR. AND MRS. CARL BOLM
AND CHILDREN.

Department Store Customers Get To Be More Honest

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — Are you worried about the disclosures of wide-spread immorality in high and low levels of American life? Take heart. All is not lost. The American department store customer is getting more honest every year.

HAL BOYLE

This cheering note comes from M. A. Hess, chairman of the Consumer Education committee of the National Retail Drygoods association. It represents more than 7,000 U. S. department stores.

Hess has just made a nationwide survey that found the morality of the nation's millions of bargain seekers it at an all-time peak.

"The study shows a marked increase in both honesty and consideration on the part of the public," he said, "specifically in relation to the bugaboo of retail stores—refunds and exchanges."

He said that in the last decade the percentage of merchandise returned had dropped from 5.4 per cent to 2.1 per cent.

But his most heartening conclusion—heartening to department store owners as well as students of morality—is that the customers try fewer shadier tricks in returning goods.

Men Most Fickle?

"Consumer honesty, as a matter of fact, has become almost universal," Hess said. "Attempted returns of used or deliberately damaged merchandise is only an infinitesimal .0027 per cent of the total, as opposed to 1.039 ten years ago."

This record would be even better, he remarked, except for an occasional lady who takes out a full set of expensive chinaware, ostensibly to buy it, but in reality to impress her guests at a fancy dinner party in her home.

Some other results of his survey: Men are getting more fickle than women; they are responsible for 65 per cent of merchandise returns as compared to 38 per cent a decade ago.

Young women return more purchases than older women.

The articles most commonly returned by women are dresses. With men it's shirts.

Most men do keep those Christmas gift neckties. Only .0108 per cent were returned last year.

Waited 50 Years

Hess emphasized that most department stores today prefer that a customer return merchandise he is dissatisfied with rather than retain it. The theory: long-term goodwill is always worth more than the profit on any one transaction.

In his own department store at Allentown, Pa., he has a policy of refunding the purchase price without question, no matter how long ago the sale was made.

"Recently we took back a blouse that an 89-year-old lady had bought from us in 1901," he said. "We were glad to get it back for historical purposes, and gave her as much as she had paid for it."

Gold can be beaten so thin that an ounce will cover an area of 146 square feet.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY

By AP Newsfeatures

SHOLEM ASCH, born Nov. 1, 1880 near Warsaw, Poland, fifteenth child of a poor Jewish cattle dealer, is the author of many books dealing with Biblical characters and the problems of the Jewish people.

Among them are "The Nazarene," "Moses," "Mary," "The Mother," and "The War Goes On." "My intention," he once said, "has been to demonstrate the interdependence of the two faiths (Christian and Jewish) in the hope that mutual understanding may lead to a better world." Asch now lives in New York.

Silver Wedding Is Observed By Gerard Depuydts

PERKINS—Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Depuydts celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Saturday, October 27, the observances opening with a high mass at 9 at St. Joseph's church with the Very Rev. A. C. Coignard officiating. They were married in the same church by the same pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Depuydts of Chicago were their attendants. Mrs. Depuydts wore a gray wool gabardine suit and an orchid. The choir of St. Joseph's church sang the mass and "O Sanctissima" was sung at the offertory.

A dinner for 40 guests was served in the parish hall followed by an afternoon and evening reception. Mr. and Mrs. Depuydts received many beautiful gifts.

Decorations in the church for the anniversary mass were mixed baby mums. Flowers also were used for the reception arranged with silver leaves and not cups and the tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Mitchell Depuydts and Mrs. DeLisle poured at the reception.

Lady Godiva In Tights Rides At Horse Show

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(AP)—Now we have "Lady Godiva" doing her stuff—in pink tights—at a horse show.

The stunt, with the traditional knee-length blonde wig and spiel against high taxes, featured Mrs. Thelma "Shug" Coburn, riding side-saddle at the show staged here yesterday by the Sacramento County Horsemen's Association.

After her ride, the blue-eyed blonde made her way to the microphone and started urging people to "write your congressman." But the racket from a low-flying plane drowned out the rest. The crowd never did find out what she wanted them to write.
